U.S.-Islamic World Forum
مندِّ idle ي América والصلَّم الإسلامِي

June 9-11, 2013 • Doha, Qatar
WELCOME

Ahlan Wa Sahlan!

On behalf of the Brookings Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World, housed within the Saban Center for Middle East Policy, we welcome you to the tenth annual U.S.-Islamic World Forum. In partnership with the State of Qatar, Brookings convenes this Forum annually under the gracious auspices of H.R.H. Sheikh Hamad bin Khalifa Al-Thani, the Emir of Qatar.

Last year, we examined the impact of the “Arab Awakening,” not just for the Arab world, but also for the United States and Muslim communities around the globe. This year, we meet as many Muslim communities pursue the challenging work of democratization and development, as South Asia prepares for momentous transitions, and as too many people in too many places still struggle to overcome violent conflict.

During our three days together, we have arranged a variety of formats for candid dialogue and engagement:

- A series of keynote remarks at our opening gala dinner from world leaders, discussing the challenges and opportunities confronting relations between the United States and Muslim communities around the globe;
- Televised and webcast plenary sessions to explore in-depth key developments, transitions, and crises affecting our world;
- A set of four targeted working groups bringing together practitioners and experts from specific fields to develop practical partnerships and policy recommendations for our governments.

We are grateful to His Highness the Emir for his leadership and generosity in enabling us to come together for these three days of candid discussion. We would also like to thank the Prime Minister and Foreign Minister of Qatar, H.E. Sheikh Hamad bin Jassem bin Jabr Al-Thani, and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs for their support. In particular, we would like to recognize H.E. Sheikh Ahmed bin Mohammed bin Jabr Al-Thani, the Minister’s Assistant for International Cooperation Affairs and the Chairman of the Permanent Committee for Organizing Conferences, as well as the Permanent Committee’s Executive Director, Ambassador Abdulla Fakhroo, and the ministry’s entire staff for their support.

Thank you for joining us and we look forward to welcoming you to Doha.

Tamara Cofman Wittes
Senior Fellow and Director
Saban Center for Middle East Policy

Durriya Badani
Deputy Director
Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World
Welcome to the 2013 U.S.-Islamic World Forum, held this year at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in Doha, Qatar. It is our hope that your time with us is both informative and comfortable. To ensure this, we wanted to outline for you our policies with respect to transportation, hotel, and meals during the forum.

Transportation and Travel:

Complimentary transportation will be provided for all international participants from Doha International Airport to the Ritz-Carlton Hotel and from the hotel to the airport for your return.

Bus transportation will also be provided from the Ritz-Carlton to the off-site dinner on Monday, June 10th. We request all participants to please be at the entrance of the Ritz-Carlton hotel promptly at 7:00 pm for departure. For special needs only, participants may also request a private car through the concierge desk.

If you have questions or concerns related to your airline travel, a Qatar Airways travel agent will be available on-site to answer any questions that you may have.

Hotel Stay:

We are pleased to provide you with a complimentary room at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel for the nights of June 8th, 9th, 10th, and 11th. If you would like to extend your stay, you may do so subject to availability and at your own expense. There are no exceptions to this policy.

In addition, during the nights of June 8th, 9th, 10th, and 11th, you will receive free internet service in your hotel room.

A valid credit card must be presented during check-in for incidental charges that may be incurred during your stay.

Meals and Translation Services:

For all participants and special guests, breakfast, lunch, and dinner are complimentary on behalf of the Forum; however, please note that room service and items from the minibar will be at your own expense.

If you have any special needs or requests, please visit the concierge desk at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel. Translation services are also available.
AGENDA AT A GLANCE

All Sessions will be held in the Al Wosail Ballroom

SATURDAY, JUNE 8

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Event</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>6:00 PM</td>
<td>Registration</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8:00 PM</td>
<td>Welcome Reception</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

SUNDAY, JUNE 9

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Event</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>6:30 AM</td>
<td>Breakfast (The Lagoon Restaurant)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9:00 AM-10:30 AM</td>
<td>Registration</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>10:30 AM-11:00 AM</td>
<td>Welcoming Remarks</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11:00 AM-12:45 PM</td>
<td>Plenary I: Transitions in Afghanistan and Pakistan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1:00 PM-2:00 PM</td>
<td>Lunch (The Lagoon Restaurant)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2:15 PM-5:30 PM</td>
<td>Working Group Sessions</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7:00 PM-9:00 PM</td>
<td>Gala Dinner (Al Wosail Ballroom)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

MONDAY, JUNE 10

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Event</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>6:30 AM</td>
<td>Breakfast (The Lagoon Restaurant)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8:00 AM-9:00 AM</td>
<td>Plenary II: Politics Demonizes, Culture Humanizes: Arts, Conflict, and Security*</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9:00 AM-10:45 AM</td>
<td>Working Group Sessions</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11:00 AM-12:45 PM</td>
<td>Plenary III: Democracy and Development: How Do They Fit Together?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1:00 PM-2:00 PM</td>
<td>Lunch (The Lagoon Restaurant)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2:15 PM-4:30 PM</td>
<td>Working Group Sessions</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>7:00 PM</td>
<td>Buses Depart for Off-site Dinner</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

TUESDAY, JUNE 11

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Time</th>
<th>Event</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>6:30 AM</td>
<td>Breakfast (The Lagoon Restaurant)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8:00 AM-9:15 AM</td>
<td>Plenary Session IV: Arab Opinion, Identity, and the Reshaping of the Middle East</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9:15 AM-10:45 AM</td>
<td>Working Group Sessions</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11:00 AM-12:45 PM</td>
<td>Plenary V: Ripple Effects: the Syria Crisis and its Regional Impact</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12:45 PM-1:15 PM</td>
<td>Closing Remarks and Summary</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1:30 PM-3:00 PM</td>
<td>Lunch and Conclusion of Forum (The Lagoon Restaurant)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

* Open to the media
Plenary Session

Plenary I: Transitions in Afghanistan and Pakistan

The coming year will bring dramatic change to American engagement with the governments and peoples of South Asia. Afghanistan’s government is taking on more security responsibility as the United States and NATO prepare to withdraw most of their forces from the country by the end of 2014. This year, Pakistan will experience its first civilian transfer of power, while Afghanistan prepares for presidential elections next year. These important steps also raise questions about the prospects for political, economic, and security stability in the region, and the future role of the United States in achieving those regional goals. Can Afghan forces effectively protect their own country’s security? How can Afghanistan-Pakistan relations work to advance regional stability and development? What are the prospects for regional economic integration through a “New Silk Road” strategy? How can local governments and civil society work together to address citizens’ needs? What are American interests and American responsibilities as the troop withdrawal from Afghanistan is underway?

Date

| June 9 |
| 11:00 AM - 12:45 PM |

Session Description

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>DATE</th>
<th>SESSION DESCRIPTION</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>JUNE 9</td>
<td>Plenary I: Transitions in Afghanistan and Pakistan</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11:00AM-12:45PM</td>
<td>The coming year will bring dramatic change to American engagement with the governments and peoples of South Asia. Afghanistan’s government is taking on more security responsibility as the United States and NATO prepare to withdraw most of their forces from the country by the end of 2014. This year, Pakistan will experience its first civilian transfer of power, while Afghanistan prepares for presidential elections next year. These important steps also raise questions about the prospects for political, economic, and security stability in the region, and the future role of the United States in achieving those regional goals. Can Afghan forces effectively protect their own country’s security? How can Afghanistan-Pakistan relations work to advance regional stability and development? What are the prospects for regional economic integration through a “New Silk Road” strategy? How can local governments and civil society work together to address citizens’ needs? What are American interests and American responsibilities as the troop withdrawal from Afghanistan is underway?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

All Sessions will be held in the Al Wosail Ballroom
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>DATE</th>
<th>SESSION DESCRIPTION</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>June 10</td>
<td>Plenary II: “Politics Demonizes, Culture Humanizes”: Arts, Conflict, and Security</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8:00 AM-9:00 AM</td>
<td>Arts and culture play a central symbolic and social role in regions beset by conflict. Extremists recognize the power of arts and culture, and target tangible (Bamayan Buddhas) and intangible (Mali’s Festival in the Desert) cultural icons and leaders for destruction. In war-torn areas of the world, artists reach for their pens, instruments, and voices to mirror their worlds, to hold governments accountable, and to protest injustice and repression. This panel will examine the evolving roles of arts, culture, and media in areas and situations of conflict and instability. It will highlight how governmental and non-governmental leaders can support the role of arts and culture in promoting human security and in fostering positive political and social change and economic development.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 10</td>
<td>Plenary III: Democracy and Development: How Do They Fit Together?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11:00 AM-12:45 PM</td>
<td>Two years ago, popular demands for bread, freedom, and social justice overturned the political order in several Arab countries—but since then, governments have struggled to meet public demands, and populations are increasingly skeptical and impatient about their prospects for a better life. While countries in transition have made strides toward establishing new rules for the political game, painful economic policy choices loom. Deepening political polarization, lags in reforming government institutions, spiking sectarian tensions, and ongoing security challenges have all retarded economic recovery and made international investors and donors hesitant to step in. Meanwhile, lessons of development confirm the importance of transparent, accountable, and responsive governance to achieving sustainable economic growth and human development. At times of instability and transition, how can international donors and institutions help advance inclusive governance and development? What are the domestic challenges to promoting democracy and development, and how can they be overcome? What is the best role for private sector actors, and how do we engage them effectively on behalf of good governance and development?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>DATE</td>
<td>SESSION DESCRIPTION</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>-----------</td>
<td>-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 11</td>
<td>Plenary IV: Arab Opinion, Identity, and the Reshaping of the Middle East</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>8:00AM-9:15AM</td>
<td>This plenary discussion addresses the prisms through which Arabs view the world, the</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>driving forces behind the Arab uprisings, and how these forces are likely to shape the</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>political battles in Arab societies in the coming years. In the new Middle East, Arab</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>public opinion matters more than ever before; and Arab public notions of “dignity” are</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>not limited to relations between rulers and ruled but, fundamentally, include Arab relations</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>with the outside world. The panel will cover themes to include Arab attitudes toward the</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>United States, Iran, Israel, other global powers, as well as attitudes toward democracy,</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>the role of religion, and women. We will feature a discussion of Shibley Telhami’s new book,</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>The World Through Arab Eyes: Arab Public Opinion and the Reshaping of the Middle East,</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>with comments from knowledgeable experts.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>June 11</td>
<td>Plenary Session V: Ripple Effects: the Syria Crisis and its Regional Impact</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>11:00AM-12:45PM</td>
<td>The violence in Syria has claimed more than 80,000 lives and displaced almost 5 million</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>people, either internally or as refugees. The spiraling effects of the conflict on the neighbor-</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>hood include humanitarian, security, and political challenges. The international community has debated extensively about the impact of this crisis on international security and the interests of neighboring states, but as yet has not achieved consensus on how to respond. This high-level panel will explore the regional impact of the crisis in Syria—on neighboring countries, but also on the strategic balance, regional diplomacy, and on other longstanding challenges in the region.</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
WORKING GROUPS

On the Brink: Avoiding Economic Collapse and Promoting Inclusive Growth in Egypt and Tunisia

CONVENERS

Hafez Ghanem, Shadi Hamid, and Salman Shaikh

Economic frustration and anger helped fuel the Arab revolutions—but after two years, Egypt and Tunisia are facing an increase in the fiscal and balance of payments deficits, a decline in economic growth, and a rise in unemployment. It seems clear, therefore, that economic recovery should be a top priority for the new leadership in Tunisia and Egypt, as well as for the international community, which has a stake in a successful transition to democracy. The Arab revolutions provide an opportunity for the international community, particularly the United States, to revise its policies in support of Arab countries with a greater focus on supporting democracy, human rights, and inclusive economic growth. This roundtable will bring together economists and political activists from Egypt and Tunisia, as well as experts from bilateral and multilateral donor agencies to focus on three broad questions: What should governments and donors do to achieve macro-financial stabilization and avoid economic collapse? What measures can be taken to increase economic opportunities for youth and other disadvantaged groups, and to encourage job creation? Can we identify some “quick wins” in the area of good governance that could support inclusive and sustainable growth, particularly corruption control?

Rethinking the “Red Line”: The Intersection of Free Speech, Religious Freedom, and Social Change

CONVENERS

Asma Uddin and Haris Tarin

The issue of free speech, particularly freedom to speak about, criticize, or even reject religion, continues to be a contentious issue among Muslims, and between Muslims and non-Muslim compatriots, in the United States and in Muslim-majority countries. This working group will explore the reasons why free speech remains a controversial topic with changing contours and disputed boundaries, and how these disputes might be addressed and resolved. Using the Organization of Islamic Cooperation’s Defamation of Religions Resolution as a case study, the working group will look at different definitions of free speech, alternative standards governing limits on free speech, and how the gaps among competing standards might be bridged. The goal of the working group is to produce a policy memo and action initiative that will reflect culturally specific concerns and reconcile them.
Diplomacy and Religion: Seeking Common Interests and Engagement in a Dynamic World

CONVENERS

Allen Keiswetter and Bishop John Chane

This working group brings together diplomats, clerics, and scholars to explore how religious communities and leaders on the one hand, and diplomats on the other, can find common interests and ways of common engagement in tackling international problems. It seeks first to delineate the scope both religiously and diplomatically for cooperation on major foreign policy matters affecting the U.S. and Islamic world, and then to take up some specific issues for discussion: U.S.-Iran Relations on Nuclear Issues; Middle East Peace Negotiations; and Religion and U.S. Diplomacy in the Arab Transition States. While religious and diplomatic frameworks differ significantly, each recognizes the other’s relevance to conflict resolution and human progress. How can these two approaches work together to better appreciate and incorporate the other perspective, to build common understandings of key concepts and of specific issues, and to engage in mutual endeavor to resolve pressing international problems? The group will explore options for such shared understanding and collaboration.

Advancing Women’s Rights in Post-Conflict States: A Focus on Afghanistan, Egypt, and Libya

CONVENERS

Manal Omar, Hamid Khan, and Kathleen Kuehnast

Political transitions in states emerging from conflict pose challenges and offer opportunities. In the countries we will consider in this working group, there is a renewed emphasis on democracy (with its principle that all citizens are equal), but also on defining a role for Islam within the state. Efforts to incorporate Islamic religious concepts into the formal constitutions of Afghanistan, Egypt, and Libya have left important questions unresolved, especially regarding the rights of women. The challenge of fostering common approaches among Muslim women activists, members of the ulama (religious leaders) as well as legal advocates is daunting, yet finding common ground among such diverse stakeholders on women’s rights in Muslim-majority states is critical to advancing democracy and human development. With this challenge in mind, the focus of this working group is to find consensus on ways to champion and sustain progress on women’s rights amid renewed Islamic constitutionalism. By enlisting activists and religious leaders to draw on lessons learned and reason together, a more tailored approach may emerge based upon each nation’s respective cultural, institutional and human development.
Hamad bin Jassim bin Jabr Al-Thani
QATAR

Hamad bin Jassim bin Jabr Al-Thani is Prime Minister and Foreign Minister of the State of Qatar. Previously, he served as First Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs. From 1982 to 1989, he was the Director of the Office of the Minister of Municipal Affairs and Agriculture. In July 1989, Al-Thani was appointed Minister of Municipal Affairs and Agriculture, and served as Deputy Minister of Electricity and Water for two years. He has also served as Chairman of the Qatar Electricity and Water Company, President of the Central Municipal Council, Director of the Special Emiri Projects Office, member of Qatar Petroleum Board of Directors, and member of the Supreme Council for Planning. Additionally, Al-Thani has held several other key positions, including member of the Supreme Defense Council, head of Qatar’s Permanent Committee for the Support of al-Quds, member of the Permanent Constitution Committee, member of the Ruling Family Council, and member of the Supreme Council for the Investment of the Reserves of the State.

Martin Indyk
UNITED STATES

Martin Indyk is the Vice President and Director of the Foreign Policy program at Brookings, and the founding Director of the Saban Center for Middle East Policy at Brookings. He served as U.S. Ambassador to Israel from 1995 to 1997 and 2000 to 2001. Before his first posting to Israel, Indyk was Special Assistant to President William J. Clinton and Senior Director for Near East and South Asian Affairs at the National Security Council. He served as Assistant Secretary of State for Near East Affairs from 1997 to 2000. Before entering the U.S. Government, Indyk was founding Executive Director of the Washington Institute for Near East Policy. He currently serves as Chairman of the International Council of the New Israel Fund. His book, Innocent Abroad: An Intimate Account of U.S. Peace Diplomacy in the Middle East, was published in January 2009 in both Hebrew and English. His most recent book, co-authored with Michael O’Hanlon and Kenneth Lieberthal, is Bending History: Barack Obama’s Foreign Policy. Indyk received a B.Econ. (Hon.) from Sydney University and a Ph.D. in International Relations from the Australian National University.
LIST OF PARTICIPANTS

AS OF MAY 24, 2013

NORTH AMERICA AND EUROPE

Unless noted otherwise, participants in this section are from the United States.

Geneive Abdo
Nonresident Fellow, Saban Center for Middle East Policy at Brookings; Fellow, Middle East Program, Stimson Center

Justin Alexander
Senior Economist, Qatar National Bank
UNITED KINGDOM

Rim-Sarah Alouane
Ph.D. Candidate in Public Law, University of Toulouse 1 Capitole
FRANCE

Hadeel Al-Shalchi
Middle East Correspondent for Thomson Reuters
CANADA

Zainab Al-Suwaij
Co-Founder and Executive Director, American Islamic Congress

Shahed Amanullah
Senior Advisor for Technology, U.S. Department of State

Nazanin Ash
Deputy Assistant Secretary, Bureau of Near Eastern Affairs, U.S. Department of State

Omar Ashour
Senior Lecturer, Institute of Arab and Islamic Studies, University of Exeter; Nonresident Fellow, Brookings Doha Center
UNITED KINGDOM

Nihad Awad
National Executive Director, Council on American-Islamic Relations

Durriya Badani
Deputy Director, Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World at Brookings

Merete Bilde
Policy Advisor, European External Action Service BELGIUM

Ian Black
Middle East Editor, The Guardian
UNITED KINGDOM

Marshall Breger
Professor, Catholic University of America Law School

Stacy Burdett
Director, Government and National Affairs, Anti-Defamation League

Daniel Byman
Research Director and Senior Fellow, Saban Center for Middle East Policy at Brookings

Perry Cammack
Member, Policy Planning Staff, U.S. Department of State

Andrew Cedar
Senior Director for Global Engagement, National Security Staff, White House

Gail Chalef
Director of Communications, Foreign Policy at Brookings

John Bryson Chane
Eighth Bishop of Washington, D.C. (Ret.); Senior Advisor to Washington National Cathedral on Interfaith Relations

Isobel Coleman
Senior Fellow and Director of the Civil Society, Markets, and Democracy Initiative, Council on Foreign Relations
Alexey Malashenko
Co-Chair, Religion, Society, and Security Program, Carnegie Moscow Center RUSSIA

Abdul-Rehman Malik
Program Manager, Radical Middle Way
UNITED KINGDOM

Shahid Malik
Chairman, Global Cooperation & Development Partnerships
UNITED KINGDOM

Peter Mandaville
Director, Ali Vurak Ak Center for Global Islamic Studies, George Mason University; Nonresident Senior Fellow, Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World at Brookings

Paul Marshall
Senior Fellow, Hudson Institute

Theodore McCarrick
Cardinal Archbishop Emeritus of Washington

William Miller
Senior Advisor to the U.S.-Iran Program, Search for Common Ground; former U.S. Ambassador to Ukraine

Dalia Mogahed
President and CEO, Mogahed Consulting

Alia Moubayed
Director and Senior Economist, Emerging Markets Research Department, Barclays
UNITED KINGDOM

Mouaz Moustafa
Political Director, Syrian Emergency Task Force

Vitaly Naumkin
Director, Institute of Oriental Studies
RUSSIA

Ronald E. Neumann
President, American Academy of Diplomacy; former U.S. Ambassador to Afghanistan, Bahrain, and Algeria

Iqbal Noor Ali
Senior Advisor, Aga Khan Development Network

Pakul Noor Ali
Senior Advisor, Aga Khan Development Network

Lida Sahar Noory
Senior Advisor for Afghanistan, Secretary's Office of Global Women's Issues, U.S. Department of State

Michael O’Hanlon
Senior Fellow, Center for 21st Century Security and Intelligence, and Director of Research, Foreign Policy at Brookings

Manal Omar
Director, North Africa, Iraq, and Iran Programs, United States Institute of Peace

Thomas Pickering
Vice Chairman, Hills & Company; former U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations

Bruce Riedel
Director, Intelligence Project at Brookings; Senior Fellow, Saban Center for Middle East Policy at Brookings

Charles Robertson
Canon to the Presiding Bishop, The Episcopal Church; Distinguished Visiting Professor, General Theological Seminary

Max Rodenbeck
Chief Middle East Correspondent, The Economist

Josh Rogin
Senior Correspondent, Newsweek and The Daily Beast

Laura Rozen
Foreign Policy Reporter, Al Monitor

Natan Sachs
Senior Researcher, Pew Research Center

David Saperstein
Director, Religious Action Center of Reform Judaism

Neha Sahgal
Senior Researcher, Pew Research Center

Cynthia Schneider
Nonresident Senior Fellow, Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World at Brookings; former U.S. Ambassador to the Netherlands

David Sedney
Former Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Afghanistan, Pakistan and Central Asia
Daniel Serwer
Senior Fellow, Center for Transatlantic Relations, and Professor, Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies, Johns Hopkins University

Jihad Turk
President, Bayan Claremont

Asma Uddin
Legal Fellow, Institute for Social Policy and Understanding; Legal Counsel, Becket Fund for Religious Liberty

Samer Shehata
Associate Professor, University of Oklahoma

Antoine van Agtmael
Senior Adviser, Garten Rothkopf

Christopher Shields
Partner, EnTech Holdings and FN.org

Jerry White
Deputy Assistant Secretary, Bureau of Conflict and Stabilization Operations, U.S. Department of State

Tad Stahnke
Director of Policy and Programs, Human Rights First

Tamara Cofman Wittes
Senior Fellow and Director, Saban Center for Middle East Policy at Brookings

Nina Sudhakar
Georgetown University Law Center

Huma Yusuf
Journalist, Dawn Newspaper UNITED KINGDOM

Arsalan Suleman
Deputy U.S. Envoy to the Organization of Islamic Cooperation and Counselor for Multilateral Affairs, U.S. Department of State

Maryam al-Amri
Executive Officer, Deputy Vice Chancellor’s Office, Sohar University OMAN

Ahmed Al Omran
Blogger, Saudi Jeans and Riyadh Bureau SAUDI ARABIA

Ahmed bin Mohammed bin Jabr Al-Thani
Minister’s Assistant for International Cooperation Affairs; Chairman, Permanent Committee for Organizing Conferences QATAR

Husam Abudagga
Lead Operations Officer and Deputy Head of Cairo Office, The World Bank EGYPT

Wajeeha Al-Baharna
Founder and President, Bahrain Women Association for Human Development BAHRAIN

Ahmed bin Mohammed bin Jabr Al-Thani
Minister’s Assistant for International Cooperation Affairs; Chairman, Permanent Committee for Organizing Conferences QATAR

Nia Edward
UnitEd kinGdOM

Susan Ziadeh
Ambassador of the United States to the State of Qatar

Manny Ansar
Executive Director, Festival in the Desert, Timbuktu; Founder EFES Charity MALI

Huma Yusuf
Journalist, Dawn Newspaper UNITED KINGDOM

Alya Ahmed Saif Al-Thani
Ambassador and Permanent Representative, Permanent Mission of the State of Qatar to the United Nations QATAR

Ibrahim Arafat
Professor, Cairo University; Professor, Qatar University QATAR

Omaima Abou-Bakr
Professor, Cairo University EGYPT

MANNAN ABDUL-RAHMAN
Director of Policy and Research, U.S. Commission on International Religious Freedom

Muhammad Nurayn Ashafa
Co-Executive Director, Interfaith Mediation Centre NIGERIA

Maryam al-Amri
Executive Officer, Deputy Vice Chancellor’s Office, Sohar University OMAN

Wajeeha Al-Baharna
Founder and President, Bahrain Women Association for Human Development BAHRAIN

Ahmed Al Omran
Blogger, Saudi Jeans and Riyadh Bureau SAUDI ARABIA

Ahmed bin Mohammed bin Jabr Al-Thani
Minister’s Assistant for International Cooperation Affairs; Chairman, Permanent Committee for Organizing Conferences QATAR

Nia Edward
UnitEd kinGdOM

Susan Ziadeh
Ambassador of the United States to the State of Qatar

Manny Ansar
Executive Director, Festival in the Desert, Timbuktu; Founder EFES Charity MALI

Ibrahim Arafat
Professor, Cairo University; Professor, Qatar University QATAR

Muhammad Nurayn Ashafa
Co-Executive Director, Interfaith Mediation Centre NIGERIA
Rabea Ataya
Founder and CEO, Bayt.com
UNITED ARAB EMIRATES

Jasser Auda
Associate Professor, Faculty of Islamic Studies, Qatar Foundation
QATAR

Randa Ayoubi
Founder and Chief Executive Officer, Rubicon Group Holding JORDAN

Hossam Bahgat
Founder and Director, Egyptian Initiative for Personal Rights
EGYPT

Mahmoud Ben Romdhane
Professor, University of Tunis
TUNISIA

Lina Beydoun
Joint Fellow, Brookings Doha Center-Qatar University
QATAR

Eman Bin Younis
Legal Advisor, Arabic Legislation Encyclopedia; Ph.D. Candidate, Benghazi University
LIBYA

Amel Boubekeur
Visiting Fellow, Brookings Doha Center
TUNISIA

Ridha Chkoundali
Economic Advisor to the Minister of Development and International Cooperation
TUNISIA

Amr Darrag
Minister for Planning and International Cooperation
EGYPT

Tarek El-Dessouky
Member, Nour Party
EGYPT

Aïcha El Hajjami
Founding Member and Head, Center for Studies and Research on Women and the Family, Faculty of Law, Cadi Ayyad University MOROCCO

Magda El-Sanousi
Country Director, Oxfam LEBANON

Saeb Erekat
Chief Negotiator, Palestine Liberation Organization PALESTINE

Pacinthe Ahmed Fahmy
President and Managing Director, Al-Mashoura Consulting Firm
EGYPT

Ufuk Gokcen
Ambassador and Permanent Observer to the United Nations, Organization of Islamic Cooperation
TURKEY

Nashwa Hafez
Co-Founder, Nebny
EGYPT

Shadi Hamid
Fellow and Director of Research, Brookings Doha Center
QATAR

Mazen Hasna
Dean, College of Engineering, Qatar University
QATAR

Adnan Hayajneh
Professor, Qatar University
QATAR

H. A. Hellyer
Nonresident Fellow, Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World at Brookings
EGYPT

Saad Eddin Ibrahim
Founder and Head, Ibn Khaldun Center for Development Studies
EGYPT

Ekmeleddin Ihsanoglu
Secretary General, Organization of Islamic Cooperation
TURKEY

Lobna Jeribi
Member, Political Bureau and Executive Secretariat, Ettakatol Party; Chairman, Economic Committee, Governorate of Tunis’s Regional Council; Deputy, Tunisian Constituent Assembly
TUNISIA

Mehrangiz Kar
Visiting Professor, Pembroke Center for Teaching and Research on Women, Brown University IRAN

Wael Khalil
Founding Member, Masrena Movement
EGYPT
Zahra Langhi
Co-Founder, Libyan Women’s Platform for Peace
LIBYA

Abdoul Aziz Mahamadou Maiga
Representative for Religious Affairs and Islamic Cooperation; Ministry of Religious Affairs
MALI

Sanaa Makhlouf
Senior Instructor, The American University in Cairo
EGYPT

Tamer Meky
Member, Shura Council; Co-Founder, Asala Party
EGYPT

Eiman Mustafawi
Dean, College of Arts and Sciences, Qatar University
QATAR

Gerd Nonneman
Dean, Georgetown University School of Foreign Service in Qatar
QATAR

Hibaaq Osman
Founder and CEO, Karama
SOMALIA

Taufiq Rahim
Executive Director, Globesight
UNITED ARAB EMIRATES

Ebrahim Rasool
Ambassador of the Republic of South Africa to the United States
SOUTH AFRICA

David Roberts
Director, Qatar Office, Royal United Services Institute
QATAR

Ridha Saidi
Minister Delegate to the Prime Minister of Tunisia
TUNISIA

Wafia Saifalnasr
President, Prime Minister’s Diwan; Founding Member, Libyan Women’s Platform for Peace
LIBYA

Mohamad Sammak
Secretary General, Christian-Muslim Committee for Dialogue; Advisor to the Mufti of Lebanon LEBANON

Tarek Shaalan
Head, Economic Committee, Al-Watan Party
EGYPT

Salman Shaikh
Fellow and Director, Brookings Doha Center
QATAR

Ibrahim Sharqieh
Fellow and Deputy Director, Brookings Doha Center
QATAR

Amira Omar Wali
Program Manager, Qatar 2022 Supreme Council
QATAR

James Movel Wuye
Co-Executive Director, Interfaith Mediation Centre
NIGERIA

Bilkisu Yusuf
Advisor to the President of Nigeria; Columnist, Daily Trust
NIGERIA

Najmuddin Zainuddin
al-Khaleej Jamiaat
QATAR

Mahir Zeynalov
Journalist, Today’s Zaman
TURKEY

Dalia Ziadi
Executive Director, Ibn Khaldun Center for Development Studies
EGYPT

Jamila Afghani
Director, Noor Educational & Capacity Development Organization
AFGHANISTAN

Homa Alizoy
Head, Kabul Juvenile Court
AFGHANISTAN

Salahuddin Aminuzzaman
Professor, University of Dhaka BANGLADESH

I Ketut Putra Erawan
Executive Director, Institute for Peace and Democracy
INDONESIA
Husain Haqqani
Former Ambassador of Pakistan to the United States; Director for South and Central Asia, Hudson Institute; Professor, Boston University
PAKISTAN

Palwasha Kakar
Director of Women’s Empowerment and Development Programs, The Asia Foundation
AFGHANISTAN

Mohammad Hashim Kamali
Founding Chairman and CEO, International Institute of Advanced Islamic Studies
MALAYSIA

Hamid Karzai
President, Islamic Republic of Afghanistan
AFGHANISTAN

Muhammad Shahzad Khan
Founding Executive Director, Chanan Development Association
PAKISTAN

Akhiko Koenuma
Director General, MENA Region, Japan International Cooperation Agency JAPAN

Hideki Matsunaga
Chief Representative, Egypt Office, Japan International Cooperation Agency
JAPAN

Riefqi Muna
Head of Research & Development, Muhammadiyah Central Board
INDONESIA

Amina Rasul-Bernardo
President, Philippine Center for Islam and Democracy; Director, Mindanao Development Authority PHILIPPINES

Abdullah Saeed
Director, National Centre of Excellence for Islamic Studies; Professor, University of Melbourne AUSTRALIA

Lutfrahman Saeed
Country Director, Legal Education Support Program; Professor, Kabul University
AFGHANISTAN

Amrullah Saleh
Chief and Founder, Basej-e Mili (Green Trend); Former Director, Afghan National Directorate of Security
AFGHANISTAN

Sultana Siddiqui
Founder and President, HUM TV Network
PAKISTAN

Wan Saiful Wan Jan
CEO, Institute for Democracy and Economic Affairs; Director, Center for British Teachers Education
MALAYSIA

Hossai Wardak
Senior Afghanistan Expert, United States Institute of Peace
AFGHANISTAN
BIOGRAPHIES

Geneive Abdo
UNITED STATES

Geneive Abdo is a Nonresident Fellow at the Brookings Institution and Fellow in the Middle East/Southwest Asia program at the Stimson Center, specializing in issues regarding modern Iran and political Islam. She also co-chairs a program on Iran in conjunction with the Heinrich Böll Stiftung, North America. Abdo is the author of the monograph, The New Sectarianism: The Arab Uprisings and the Rebirth of the Shi’i- Sunni Divide, published in April 2013 by the Saban Center for Middle East Policy at the Brookings Institution. She was formerly the Liaison Officer for the Alliance of Civilizations, a United Nations initiative established by former Secretary-General Kofi Annan, which aims to improve relations between Islamic and western societies. Abdo was a foreign correspondent before joining the United Nations, and was the first American journalist to be based in Iran since the 1979 Islamic Revolution. Her 20-year career has focused on coverage of the Middle East and the Muslim world, and her writing has appeared in Foreign Affairs, Foreign Policy, The New York Times, and The Washington Post.

Omaima Abou-Bakr
EGYPT

Omaima Abou-Bakr is a Professor of English and Comparative Literature at Cairo University. She specializes in medieval Sufi poetry and comparative topics in medieval English and Arabic literature. Her scholarly interests also include women’s mysticism and female spirituality in Christianity and Islam, feminist theology, Muslim women’s history, and gender issues in Islamic discourses and cultural history. She has published a number of articles in both English and Arabic on poetry and medieval literary texts, historical representations of women in pre-modern Muslim societies, women and gender issues in religious discourses, and Islamic feminism. Her book published in Arabic, Al-mar’ah wa-al-jindar (Woman and Gender), deals with women’s intellectual efforts to create emancipative and egalitarian discourses within an Islamic conceptual framework. Abou-Bakr received her Ph.D. from the University of California, Berkeley; her M.A. from North Carolina State University; and her B.A. from Cairo University.

Husam Abudagga
EGYPT

Husam Abudagga is the Lead Operations Officer and Deputy Head of Office at the World Bank in Cairo. Abudagga initially joined the World Bank as the Gaza Office coordinator, where he helped establish the Gaza Office and coordinated World Bank assistance with the Palestinian Authority and bilateral and multilateral donor agencies. He also served two postings in Africa, the first being the World Bank representative to the Kingdom of Lesotho, where he succeeded to transform the World Bank’s relations with the government to a higher level of engagement. His second posting was in Nairobi, Kenya, where he was assigned to supervise the newly established Global Abudagga worked for the World Bank, focusing primarily on agricultural, rural, and community development programs in Sudan and Somalia. In addition, he supervised the Somalia Drought Management and Livelihood Protection Project to respond to the recent drought. Prior to joining the World Bank, Abudagga worked for the Palestinian Trade Promotion Organization, developing export capacity of producers in order to access European markets.

Jamila Afghani
AFGHANISTAN

Jamila Afghani is the Executive Director of Noor Educational & Capacity Development Organization (NECDO), an organization focused on citizen empowerment, capacity building, and the inclusion of women and youth. Afghani has worked with more than 1,000 imams in 15 provinces of Afghanistan on the issues of peace, reconciliation, and ending violence against women. With more than 14 years of field experience, Afghani has worked alongside numerous international gender and human rights consultants and has provided a unique perspective given her Islamic studies background. She received the Commitment to Action Award from the Clinton Global Initiative and the Religious Peacemaker Award from the Tanenbaum Center for Interreligious Understanding. Afghani received her M.A. in International Relations and Islamic Studies from Peshawar University.

Ahmed Al Omran
SAUDI ARABIA

Ahmed Al Omran is a Saudi blogger and journalist. His blog, Saudi Jeans, is one of the most well-known and long-standing blogs in the Middle East. His work has appeared in major publications such as The New York Times, the Guardian and Foreign Policy. Born and raised in Hofuf, eastern Saudi Arabia. He worked for the National Public Radio in Washington D.C. before returning to his home country where he launched his new site Riyadh Bureau. Al-Omran graduated with a master’s degree in digital media from Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism, New York.

Maryam Al-Amri
OMAN

Maryam Al-Amri is the Executive Officer at the Deputy Vice Chancellor’s Office at Sohar University, Oman. For the past 18 years, Al-Amri has served in various positions at Sohar, including coordinating the women and technology programs. Al-Amri has organized numerous workshops on issues pertaining to Omani women and their communities, the role of women in political reform and elections, the challenges of electronic marketing forums for Oman’s shura councils, the empowerment of the blind and disabled in Omani society, and minimizing the phenomenon of divorce in Oman. She has also attended numerous international conferences including the Second Congress of The Asian Association of Women’s Studies in Malaysia. Al-Amri received her bachelor’s in Business Administration.
Wajeeha Al-Baharna
BAHRAIN

Wajeeha Al-Baharna is the Founder and President of the Bahrain Women Association for Human Development. A renowned activist in the Middle East in the field of women rights, she launched a series of discussions focused on cultural, political, social, economic, and judicial discrimination against women in the Arab and Islamic worlds. She specializes in women’s roles in Islamic societies. In 2001, she was appointed as a Peace Ambassador during the Global Violence: Crisis and Hope Conference held in New York. Al-Baharna is board member of the Innovation Cultural Society, Al-Tajdeed, where she focuses on innovation of Islamic thought. She is also a board member of the Arab Women leadership Institute in Jordan, the Arab Thought Forum in Jordan, and the Arab Non-Governmental Organization Network for Development in Cairo.

Justin Alexander
UNITED KINGDOM

Justin Alexander is a Middle East and North Africa economic and political analyst, with a particular interest in economic development and reconciliation in conflict-affected countries. He is currently Senior Economist at Qatar National Bank where he has developed a growing series of reports, so far covering the GCC and Jordan. Alexander has previously worked for The Economist Intelligence Unit, the United Nations Assistance Mission in Iraq (UNAMI), and the Oxford Research Group. He has lived in Iraq, Jordan, and Palestine, and conducted research throughout the region. He studied at Balliol College, University of Oxford, and Birkbeck College, London.

Homa Alizoy
AFGHANISTAN

Homa Alizoy is Head of the Juvenile Court in Kabul, Afghanistan. She is also a board member of the Afghan Women’s Network, an advocacy organization for women’s empowerment in Afghanistan since 1995. She has served as a judge in various courts, including as head of the Family Court in Afghanistan. Alizoy graduated from the Faculty of Law at Kabul University.

Rim-Sarah Alouane
FRANCE

Rim-Sarah Alouane is a Ph.D. Candidate in Public Law at the University Toulouse 1 Capitole, France, and a Teaching Assistant at the University Jean-François Champollion in Albi, where she teaches Administrative Law, Civil Liberties, Constitutional Law, Economics and Public Law, and Public Services Law. Her research interests include civil liberties, cultural and religious diversity, law and religion, and minority rights. She recently published, “The Practice of Religion in the French Public and Private Workplace: In Search of an Elusive Balance” in A Test of Faith?: Religious Diversity and Accommodation in the European Workplace.

Hadeel Al-Shalchi
CANADA

Hadeel Al-Shalchi is a Middle East Correspondent for Thomson Reuters. She recently spent a year covering post-war Libya, based in Tripoli. She covered the Arab Spring in Tunisia, Egypt, Bahrain, Libya, and Syria. Al-Shalchi began her journalism career in Ottawa working as a reporter and news reader for local CBC Radio. She moved to Cairo in 2006 as a freelance journalist and began working with the Associated Press covering the Middle East from 2008 until 2012, during which time she made frequent reporting trips to Baghdad. Al-Shalchi graduated from the University of Ottawa with a degree in Chemical Engineering.

Zainab Al-Suwaij
UNITED STATES

Zainab Al-Suwaij is the Co-Founder of the American Islamic Congress (AIC) and has been its Executive Director since its inception in 2001. AIC has trained hundreds of young Middle Eastern activists in the methods of nonviolent protest and social media mobilization. Al-Suwaij’s vision for acceptance and understanding is being realized through AIC’s growing U.S. campus initiatives, including Project Nur, Interfaith Councils, and the groundbreaking Witness Series. She is an outspoken advocate for women’s equality, civil rights, and interfaith understanding. She has briefed Congress and the White House and has been invited to speak at numerous panel events, universities, and think tanks. Al-Suwaij has published editorials in The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal, and USA Today. She has appeared on NPR, BBC, Al-Jazeera, CBS, ABC, MSNBC, CNN, and Fox. Named an “Ambassador of Peace” by the Interreligious and International Peace Council, Al-Suwaij received the Dialogue on Diversity’s Liberty Award and was recognized as the “2006 International Person of the Year” by the National Liberty Museum.

Ahmed bin Mohammed bin Jabr Al-Thani
QATAR

Ahmed bin Mohammed bin Jabr Al-Thani is the Foreign Minister’s Assistant for International Cooperation Affairs of the State of Qatar and the Chairman of the Standing Committee for Organizing Conferences. In 1984, he held a position in the Urban Planning Department at the Ministry of Municipal Affairs and Agriculture and joined the Technical Office of the Emir at the Emiri Diwan in 1986. Later, he was Secretary of the Supreme Council for Planning under the chairmanship of the Emir. He was a Senior Economic Researcher in the Planning Sector and Director of the Economic Development Planning Department at the Supreme Council for Planning. In December 2011, he was appointed the Minister’s Assistant for International Cooperation Affairs, and in this capacity, has represented the State of Qatar at several regional and international conferences and meetings. He received his master’s degree in Development Planning from London University.

Shahed Amanullah
UNITED STATES

Shahed Amanullah is the Senior Advisor for Technology for the Office of the Special Representative to Muslim Communities at the U.S. Department of State, working on digital diplomacy projects and Countering Violent Extremism (CVE) initiatives for the Special Representative. Amanullah’s contributions to foreign policy discourse include appearances on news venues such as CNN and Al Jazeera English, speaking engagements at the Council on Foreign Relations and the Center for American Progress, and essays and op-eds in academic journals and major newspapers. Amanullah most recently served as chief executive officer of Halalfire. He founded altmuslim.com, a leading online newsmagazine focusing on Muslim issues, and served as its editor-in-chief. He also created zabihah.com, the world’s largest guide to Halal restaurants and markets. Amanullah has been named three times as one of the 500 most influential Muslims in the world by Georgetown University and the Royal Islamic Strategic Studies Centre in Jordan, as well as one of the top ten most visionary young Muslims by Islamica Magazine and the winner of the SXSW Dewey Winburne Award for Community Service. Amanullah has a B.S. from the University of California, Berkeley, and an M.B.A. from Georgetown University.

Salahuddin Aminuzzaman
BANGLADESH

Salahuddin Aminuzzaman is a Professor of Public Administration and former Chairperson of the Department of Development Studies at the University of Dhaka. He is also an academic advisor at the National Defense College in Bangladesh and a Senior Fulbright Scholar. He has been a visiting professor to various reputed universities in Europe, the United States, East Africa, and the Far East. His research interests include governance, public policy, and social research methods. Some of his recent publications on politics and governance include Public Policy Making Processes and Implementation in Bangladesh, Policies, Budget and PRSP, Essentials of Social Research, and Understanding Governance and Public Policy in Bangladesh. Aminuzzaman has worked as a consultant to the World Bank, Asian Development Bank, United Nations Development Program, Department for International Development, and the United States Agency for International Development.
Manny Ansar
MALI

Mohamed Aly (Manny) Ansar is a Founder of the EFES Charity and Essakane Productions, for which he serves as Executive Director of the world renowned Festival in the Desert of Timbuktu. Ansar now works extensively in cultural development and humanitarian efforts in the Sahara. He has also managed a Tuareg music group, Tinariwen; and oversaw public relations for AMADER Electric Company of Mali. His tireless efforts to preserve the rich musical heritage of Mali and West Africa, and to promote international peace and plurality through the power of cultural engagement, have won him awards and speaking invitations at universities and institutions around the world. Most recently, he won the prestigious Freemuse Award for artistic freedom from the United Nations in Geneva. Ansar holds a master’s degree in International Public Law from the University of Mali.

Ibrahim Arafat
QATAR

Ibrahim Arafat is a Professor of Political Science at the Faculty of Economics and Political Science, Cairo University. He is also a Professor in the Department of International Affairs at Qatar University and a Lecturer at the Qatar Faculty of Islamic Studies. He is the author of The Afghan Issue: Roots and Implications, Islamic Movements in Central Asia, and Globalization and Comparative Politics. Arafat writes regularly for the Qatari newspaper Al-Watan as well as for various Egyptian media outlets including Al-Watan and Al-Ahram.

Nazanin Ash
UNITED STATES

Nazanin Ash is Deputy Assistant Secretary of State, Near Eastern Affairs, where she oversees assistance and partnership initiatives. Prior to this role, she served as a member of the Secretary of State’s Policy Planning Staff, managing foreign assistance, political and economic development, and aid effectiveness issues with a focus on U.S. policy and strategy responses to the Arab Spring. Previously, she served as principal advisory and chief of staff to the first director of Foreign Assistance and administrator of the U.S. Agency for International Development, developing and supervising the implementation of key strategies and tools for achieving the goals of U.S. foreign assistance reform. In 2003, Ash was appointed by the President as one of 12 White House Fellows, serving her term at the Department of State. Prior to joining the State Department, she was a program officer for ActionAid-Kenya, one of the largest NGOs in Kenya and a leading advocacy and local capacity-building institution. Ash received her Master in Public Policy from Harvard University’s John F. Kennedy School of Government, where she was awarded a Public Service Fellowship, an Imagitas Fellowship, and a Sheldon Fellowship. She received her B.A. in Political Science from Bryn Mawr College.

Muhammad Nurayn Ashafa
NIGERIA

Muhammad Nurayn Ashafa is a Muslim Cleric and Co-Executive Director of Interfaith Mediation Centre in Kaduna, Nigeria. Working alongside James Movel Wuye, Ashafa assists Nigerian communities in order to end violent clashes between Christians and Muslims. Their work extends beyond Nigeria to Ghana, Burundi, and Kenya, and was developed into a case study by the Tanenbaum’s Center of Interreligious Understanding. Ashafa, Wuye, and the Interfaith Mediation Centre have been featured in numerous documentaries on conflict resolution and reconciliation. In April 2013, the center won First Prize for a February event marking the 2013 World Interfaith Harmony Week. Ashafa has won the 2013 Hessian Peace Prize, the Fondation Chirac Prize for Conflict Prevention, and the Millennium Peace Activist Award of the Tanenbaum Center of Interreligious Understanding. He has received honorary doctorate degrees from the University of Massachusetts, the University of Glasgow, and the Open International University for Alternative Medicines.
Omar Ashour
UNITED KINGDOM

Omar Ashour is a Nonresident Fellow at the Brookings Doha Center and a Senior Lecturer at the Institute of Arab and Islamic Studies at the University of Exeter. He is the author of The De-Radicalization of Jihadists: Transforming Armed Islamist Movements, the first book on transitions from armed to unarmed activism by several Islamist organizations in Egypt, Libya, Algeria, and elsewhere. Most recently at the Brookings Institution Ashour published two policy papers, “From Bad Cop to Good Cop: The Challenge of Security Sector Reform in Egypt” and “Libyan Islamists Unpacked: The Rise, Transformation and Future.” His other published works focus on democratization, security and terrorism studies, Islamist movements, and civil-military relations. Ashour was a consultant for the United Nations and several governments on security and democratization related issues. He is a regular contributor to media outlets including the BBC, Al Jazeera, Sky News, and CNN. He received his Ph.D. from McGill University, and his M.A. and B.Sc. from The American University in Cairo.

Rabea Ataya
UNITED ARAB EMIRATES

Rabea Ataya is the Founder and CEO of Bayt.com, the Middle East’s leading job site, which serves over 11.25 million professionals and 50,000 employers from its 12 regional offices. Ataya also co-founded Gonabit.com, the region’s first group purchasing site; Mumzworld.com, the Middle East’s first and largest shopping site targeting mothers and children; and Doctoruna.com, an online medical directory and appointments booking service. Prior to Bayt.com, Ataya founded and managed InfoFort, the Middle East’s first and leading records management company with operations throughout the Middle East. Ataya received his M.S. in Engineering Economic Systems and a B.S. in Electrical Engineering, both from Stanford University.

Jasser Auda
QATAR

Jasser Auda is an Associate Professor of Public Policy in Islam with the Faculty of Islamic Studies at the Qatar Foundation. He has written a number of books, including Maqasid Al-Sharia as Philosophy of Islamic Law: A Systems Approach and Averroes’s Premier of the Jurist: Synopsis and Commentary. He recently translated Archbishop Rowan William’s Islam, Christianity, and Pluralism into Arabic. He is a founding member of the International Union of Muslim Scholars and was the founding director of Al-Maqasid Research Center in London. Auda has a Ph.D. in Systems Analysis from the University of Waterloo and a Ph.D. in Theology and Religious Studies from the University of Wales.

Nihad Awad
UNITED STATES

Nihad Awad is the National Executive Director and Co-Founder of the Council on American-Islamic Relations (CAIR), the largest non-profit Muslim civil rights and advocacy organization in the United States. His work includes interfacing with the U.S. government, facilitating interfaith dialogue, speaking at conferences, training and leadership seminars, and appearing in national and international media to discuss Islam and American Muslims. Awad has testified before both houses of the U.S. Congress on matters involving Muslims in America. In 1997 he served on the Civil Rights Advisory Panel of the White House Commission on Aviation Safety and Security. Awad has also been frequently interviewed on national and international media such as CNN, Fox, MSNBC, PBS, C-SPAN, Al-Jazeera, The New York Times, The Washington Post, USA Today, National Public Radio, and BBC World Service. Awad has been active in organizing American Muslim voters for presidential elections. In 2009, Georgetown University’s Prince Al-Waleed bin Talal Center for Muslim-Christian Understanding named Awad as one of the 500 most influential Muslims in the world. In 2010, Arabian Business ranked him as 39th in its “Power 100” list.
Randa Ayoubi
JORDAN

Randa Ayoubi is the Founder and CEO of Rubicon, an international company headquartered in Amman, Jordan. Ayoubi serves on the board of trustees of the King's Academy and the Queen Rania Foundation for Education and Development. She previously served on the board of trustees of the Royal Commission for Education Reform in Jordan and the Children's Museum in Amman. She is also a founding member of the International Women Forum (IWF), Jordan Chapter; and Information Technology Association of Jordan, intaj; as well as the Chairperson of the Red Sea Institute for Cinematic Art. Ayoubi is a member of the Young Presidents’ Organization and has received numerous awards such as the Entrepreneur of the Year Award by YEA, the regional Entrepreneur Award by Arabian Business in 2004, the Businesswoman of the Year Award at the CEO Middle East Awards in 2010, and most recently the Ernst & Young Entrepreneur of The Year Award in 2011. She received a B.S. in Computer Science and an M.B.A. from the Harvard Business School Executive Education Program.

Durriya Badani
UNITED STATES

Durriya Badani is Deputy Director of the Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World at the Saban Center at Brookings. She was recently appointed in an honorary capacity as Director for Governmental Relations for Dawat-e-Hadiyah (America). As a Presidential Management Fellow for the U.S. Department of State, Badani also served as policy advisor for the Near East and South Asia for the President’s Intergovernmental Council on Women, as a speechwriter to U.S. Secretary of State Madeleine Albright, and as an Economic Officer at the U.S. Embassy in Islamabad. Badani served in the U.S. Peace Corps in Yemen and, in 2008, was appointed by Governor Martin O’Malley to the Commission for Middle Eastern American Affairs for Maryland. Badani is the co-author of the Brookings publication “The Role of Religious Leaders and Religious Communities in Diplomacy” and the author of “Forty Years of Female Rule in Yemen: The Reign of al-Sayyida bint Ahmed al-Sulayhi.” She completed her M.A. in Arabic and Islamic Studies from the University of Texas at Austin.

Hossam Bahgat
EGYPT

Hossam Bahgat is the Founder and Director of the Egyptian Initiative for Personal Rights (EIPR), an independent, Cairo-based organization defending human rights in Egypt. Since 2002, the EIPR has used research, advocacy, and litigation to promote and defend the rights to privacy, religious freedom, health, and bodily integrity. Following the 2011 revolution that ended the rule of President Hosni Mubarak, the EIPR has expanded its scope of work to include transitional justice, the protection of civil liberties and political rights, the promotion of economic and social justice, and reform of the criminal justice system. With training in political science and international human rights law, Bahgat is also a board member of the International Network for Economic, Social, and Cultural Rights (ESCR-Net), and a member of the board of directors of the Fund for Global Human Rights. In 2010, Bahgat received Human Rights Watch's Allison Des Forges Award for Extraordinary Activism.

Lina Beydoun
QATAR

Lina Beydoun is a Brookings Doha Center–Qatar University Joint Fellow. Since 2008, she has been an Assistant Professor in the Sociology Department at Adelphi University. Previously, she taught at George Mason University, where she managed the Global Humanitarian Action and International Development programs in the Center for Global Education. She has also worked as a lecturer in the Department of Interdisciplinary Studies at Wayne State University. Her work and publications focus on human rights, migration, and citizenship in the Arab region and sub-Saharan Africa. Beydoun has completed extensive research on Lebanese migration to Sierra Leone and is currently examining the effects of the Arab Spring on minority rights in Egypt and Kuwait. Beydoun received her Ph.D. in sociology from Wayne State University and her B.A. in social and behavioral sciences from the American University of Beirut.
Merete Bilde
BELGIUM
Merete Bilde is a Policy Advisor at the European External Action Service. Prior to her current position, she worked in the Policy Unit of the European Union’s High Representative for Common Foreign and Security Policy Javier Solana on issues related to political aspects of Islam and cross-cultural relations. She has been involved in a number of initiatives at the cross-section of religion and politics, including issues related to freedom of expression, freedom of religion or belief, as well as the defamation debate. In the aftermath of the Arab Spring, her work has focused heavily on the new political actors and the new regional dynamics at play between the Middle East, the United States, and Europe. Prior to her current appointment, Bilde served as a Danish diplomat.

Eman Bin Younis
LIBYA
Eman Bin Younis is a Legal Advisor for the Arabic Legislation Encyclopedia, a Lecturer on Public International Law at Africa University, and a Lecturer on Health Legislation at Benghazi University. She is currently a Ph.D. candidate at Benghazi University, Libya, focusing on the right to health under public international law. Bin Younis has authored three books on the topic of public international law. She holds a Master’s in Public International Law and received her bachelor’s in Law from Ain Shams University in Cairo, a High Diploma in Political Science from the Arabic Studies and Researches Institute in Cairo, and a High Diploma in Public International Law from Benghazi University.

Ian Black
UNITED KINGDOM
Ian Black is the Middle East Editor of The Guardian. In more than 30 years at The Guardian, he has served as its European editor, diplomatic editor, and Middle East correspondent. He has also written for The Economist, The Observer, and other publications, and appears regularly as a commentator on the BBC, Al Jazeera, and Al Arabiya. Black studied History and Politics at Cambridge University and the London School of Economics, and Arabic at the School for Oriental and African Studies at the University of London.

Amel Boubekeur
FRANCE
Amel Boubekeur is a Visiting Fellow at the Brookings Doha Center, a Research Fellow at the University of Leiden, an Associate Research Fellow at the Centre Jacques Berque in Rabat, and a Research Fellow at the Ecole des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales—Ecole Normale Supérieure in Paris. Her research focuses on Maghreb country politics, democratization in the Arab world, Euro-Arab/U.S.-Arab relations, and Islam in Europe. She has been a resident scholar at the Carnegie Middle East Center in Beirut and head of the Islam and Europe Program at the Centre for European Policy Studies in Brussels. Boubekeur is the author of European Islam: The Challenges for Society and Public Policy, as well as co-editor with Oliver Roy of the newly released Whatever Happened to the Islamists? Salafis, Heavy Metal Muslims, and the Lure of Consumerist Islam. Boubekeur has been a visiting scholar at the University of Chicago and is a regular consultant for various United Nations agencies and the European Commission. She received an M.A. and B.A. from the Ecole des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales and Ecole Normale Supérieure and is currently completing her Ph.D.

Marshall Breger
UNITED STATES
Marshall Breger is a Professor at the Columbus School of Law at Catholic University of America. He teaches a seminar on the “Legal Issues of the Middle East Peace Process” and has written extensively on legal, political, and theological issues related to Jerusalem and holy places in Israel and Palestine. He has worked in interfaith activity both with the Catholic Church and with the Muslim community in the United States and various Middle Eastern countries. He previously served in senior positions in the Ronald Reagan and George H.W. Bush administrations. Among his assignments, he served as special assistant to President Reagan and as his liaison with the Jewish community.

Stacy Burdett

UNITED STATES

Stacy Burdett is the Director of Government and National Affairs at the Anti-Defamation League (ADL), where she heads the policy and advocacy efforts in Washington and represents ADL to the Federal government, foreign embassies and the policy community on a range of domestic and international civil and human rights issues. During her two decades of service at ADL, Burdett has led broad coalition efforts against anti-Semitism, discrimination, and hate crime in the U.S. She currently co-chairs the Human Rights Task Force of the Leadership Conference on Civil and Human Rights, a diverse coalition of over 200 American civil and human rights organizations. Burdett has also led ADL efforts to work with Inter-Governmental Organizations like the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe (OSCE) to safeguard the rights of Jewish and other targeted communities to live in security, dignity, and free of harassment. She has testified before the U.S. Congress and has addressed numerous inter-governmental conferences. She earned a degree in Middle Eastern Studies from Columbia University and the Hebrew University in Jerusalem.

Daniel Byman

UNITED STATES

Daniel Byman is a Senior Fellow and Research Director of the Saban Center for Middle East Policy at the Brookings Institution, as well as a Professor in the Security Studies Program at Georgetown University’s School of Foreign Service. Byman has served as a Professional Staff Member with both the National Commission on Terrorist Attacks on the United States (“The 9-11 Commission”) and the Joint 9/11 Inquiry Staff of the House and Senate Intelligence Committees. He has also worked as the research director of the Center for Middle East Public Policy at the RAND Corporation and as an analyst of the Middle East for the U.S. intelligence community. Byman has written widely on a range of topics related to terrorism, international security, and the Middle East. His recent books include The Five Front War: A Better Way to Fight Global Jihad; Things Fall Apart: Containing the Spillover from an Iraqi Civil War; and Deadly Connections: States that Sponsor Terrorism. His latest book is A High Price: The Triumphs and Failures of Israeli Counterterrorism. He received his Ph.D. in Political Science from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and his B.A. in Religion from Amherst College.

Andrew Cedar

UNITED STATES

Andrew Cedar is the Senior Director for Global Engagement on the National Security Staff at the White House, where he is responsible for coordinating U.S. policy and programs related to public diplomacy, international broadcasting, civil society engagement, entrepreneurship, and the intersection of technology and foreign policy. Previously, as senior advisor to the Under Secretary of State for Public Diplomacy, Cedar developed U.S. strategy for communicating with and engaging foreign publics globally. He also helped lead the development of policy on global youth issues, the rise of social media, and U.S. public engagement in the wake of the Arab Spring. Prior to joining the Obama administration, he was a consultant at McKinsey & Company, advising clients in the private and public sectors in the United States, Middle East, and Latin America. Cedar was also named a Young Global Shaper by the World Economic Forum. He has an M.Phil from the University of Cambridge, United Kingdom, and a B.A. from Yale University.

Gail Chalef

UNITED STATES

Gail Chalef is the Director of Communications for Foreign Policy Studies at Brookings and for the U.S.-Islamic World Forum. Chalef joined Brookings in 2007, after a 17 year career with CNN and CNN International. During her years at CNN, Chalef was centrally involved in CNN’s coverage of the major news events of the past two decades: the first Gulf War, the Bosnian War, the election of Nelson Mandela, the first Russian presidential election, the 9/11 attacks, and the death of Pope John Paul, to name a few. Chalef received an Emmy Award for CNN’s 9/11 coverage, a Peabody Award for CNN’s Hurricane Katrina coverage, and an Emmy nomination for Christiane Amanpour’s interview with Palestinian President Yasir Arafat. In 1987 and 1993 respectively, Chalef received fellowships from the National Endowment for the Arts and the RIAS Berlin Commission.

John Bryson Chane
UNITED STATES

John Bryson Chane is the eighth Bishop of Washington, D.C., and is a Senior Advisor on Interfaith Relations to the Washington National Cathedral. Prior to his appointment, Chane served as the president and CEO of the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral Foundation. He initiated a partnership between the Anglican Province of Southern Africa and the Diocese of Washington, which has engaged in HIV/AIDS prevention in the country of South Africa, human rights advocacy in the Kingdom of Swaziland, and malaria control and prevention in Mozambique, among other projects. In 2011, he was instrumental in freeing the American hikers held prisoner by Iranian authorities for a disputed border crossing from Afghanistan into Iraq. Chane has participated in numerous conferences hosted by the Oslo Center for Peace and Human Rights, Council of Foreign Relations, the U.S. State Department, and the Chautauqua Institution. He has appeared on ABC, CNN, CBS, and BBC Radio and won the Rumi Forum’s Global Peacemakers Award. Chane graduated from Boston University and the Berkeley Center at Yale Divinity School, and received honorary doctorate degrees from the Virginia Theological Seminary, Berkeley Divinity School at Yale, and the Episcopal Divinity School in Cambridge.

Isobel Coleman
UNITED STATES

Isobel Coleman is a Senior Fellow and Director of the Civil Society, Markets, and Democracy Initiative at the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR). Her areas of expertise include democratization, civil society, and economic development. She is the editor of the CFR book, Realizing Democracy: Lessons from Transitioning Countries, and the author of Paradise Beneath Her Feet: How Women are Transforming the Middle East, which explores how activists are working within the tenets of Islam to create economic, political, and educational opportunities for women. Coleman’s blog, Democracy in Development, discusses political reform and economic growth in the developing world. She is completing a new book on education reform and youth employment in the Middle East and North Africa. A Marshall scholar, Coleman holds a master’s and doctorate degrees in International Relations from Oxford University, and a bachelor’s in Public Policy and East Asian Studies from Princeton University.

Emmanuel Comolet
FRANCE

Emmanuel Comolet is the Advisor to the Chief Economist and the Director of Strategy in the Middle East North Africa department of the French Development Agency, where he also serves as an Economist. He also teaches international affairs and economics at various universities. He previously worked for the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development as well as the French Treasury in both China and the United States. Comolet is a graduate of the London School of Economics, Sciences Po Paris, and Ecole Nationale de la Statistique et de l’Administration Economique (ENSAE).
Sylvain Cypel
FRANCE

Sylvain Cypel is Senior Editor at Le Monde. He joined the paper in 1998 as deputy head of the international section, following five-year tenure as editor-in-chief of Courrier International and his position as deputy editor-in-chief at the journal Les Echos. Cypel has worked for the daily Le Matin de Paris and as a freelance journalist for France 2, Liberation, and other media outlets, often covering the Middle East. He is the author of the book Walled, which was originally published in French; the Spanish translation of the book received the 23rd Francisco Cercedo Journalism Prize from the Association of European Journalists. Cypel has degrees in Sociology, Contemporary History, and International Relations.

Georges Dagher HAITI

Georges Dagher is a Special Consultant to the Haitian Minister of Foreign Affairs, focusing on Arab and Islamic countries. He is also the founder of the Haitian Arab Center for Development, Education and Culture Centre (CHADEC). Dagher is also an entrepreneur and owns a real estate company. He holds a bachelor’s degree in Mechanical Engineering, an associate’s degree in Business Management, and a diploma in real estate.

Paul Danahar
UNITED KINGDOM

Paul Danahar is the BBC’s North America Bureau Chief, based in Washington, D.C. Prior to this year, he was the BBC’s Middle East Bureau Chief and managed the organization’s news coverage of the Arab Spring. He was awarded a Member of the Most Excellent Order of the British Empire (MBE) in 2003 for his work as the Baghdad Bureau Chief during the American-led invasion. He was the BBC’s East Asia Bureau Chief for three years, and prior to that he was the BBC’s South Asia Bureau Chief, covering the rise, fall, and eventual return of the Taliban.

He is one of a small number of journalists to have worked in all three countries that make up the so-called “Axis of Evil”: Iraq, Iran, and North Korea. His forthcoming book, “The New Middle East,” will be published by Bloomsbury in August 2013.

Liora Danan
UNITED STATES

Liora Danan is a Policy Officer in the Office of Policy and Programs of the U.S. Department of State’s Bureau of Conflict and Stabilization Operations (CSO). She is also a Fellow with the Center for Strategic and International Studies. Danan previously served as director of Special Projects for the University of California Institute on Global Conflict and Cooperation in the Track Two Program for the Middle East. In addition, she was a former fellow with the United States Commission on International Religious Freedom. Danan has conducted field research in the Middle East, Central Asia, Africa, and South Asia. She graduated with an M.A. from Yale University and a B.A. from Rice University.

Michael Doran
UNITED STATES

Michael Doran is the Roger Hertog senior fellow at the Saban Center for Middle East Policy at the Brookings Institution, where he specializes in Middle East security issues. Previously, he served as Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense from 2007 to 2008 and Senior Director at the National Security Council from 2005 to 2007. He has taught at New York University, Princeton University, and the University of Central Florida. Doran holds a Ph.D. and an M.A. from Princeton University and a B.A. from Stanford University.

Khaled Elgindy
UNITED STATES

Khaled Elgindy is a Fellow with the Saban Center for Middle East Policy at Brookings. He is a founding board member of the Egyptian American Rule of Law Association.
He previously served as an advisor to the Palestinian leadership in Ramallah on permanent status negotiations with Israel from 2004 to 2009, and was a key participant in the Annapolis negotiations held throughout 2008. Prior to that, Elgindy spent nine years in various political and policy-related positions in Washington, D.C., both inside and outside the federal government, including as a professional staff member on the House International Relations Committee in 2002 and as a policy analyst for the U.S Commission on International Religious Freedom from 2000 to 2002. He served as the political action coordinator for the Arab American Institute from 1998 to 2000 and as Middle East program officer for the National Democratic Institute for International Affairs from 1995 to 1997. He served as the Political Action Coordinator for the Arab American Institute from 1998 to 2000 and as Middle East Program Officer for the National Democratic Institute for International Affairs from 1995 to 1997. Elgindy holds an M.A. in Arab Studies from Georgetown University and a B.A. in Political Science from Indiana University.

Aïcha El Hajjami
MOROCCO

Aïcha El Hajjami is a Founding Member and Head of the Center for Studies and Research on Women and the Family in the Faculty of Law, Cadi Ayyad University, Marrakesh. She is also an independent researcher and a legal consultant for several Moroccan and international organizations. Previously, El Hajjami was an instructor of public law in Fez and Marrakesh. She is a member of the Research Group on Feminism Studies, housed in the School of Humanities and Social Sciences, Cadi Ayyad University. El Hajjami is also affiliated with the Forum for Legal Research in Marrakesh. She is the author of several publications on the subjects of women’s rights, family law, political participation, and the judicial-political status of women in Islam.

Magda El-Sanousi
LEBANON

Magda El-Sanousi is the Oxfam Country Director in Lebanon. El-Sanousi, who is a gender and development expert, manages the Arab Region Gender Equality program that covers Lebanon, Jordan, Egypt, Iraq, the Palestinian Territories, and Yemen. She has devoted the last 20 years to developing programs and mobilizing resources to empower women. She has lobbied key institutions and governments about the importance of inclusive development that incorporates women’s strategic and practical needs. She worked on promoting gender sensitive budgets and policies in Yemen, on advocating policy change in Iraq to give widows access to pensions, and on empowering women in remote villages in Egypt to vote and even stand as candidates in parliamentary elections. Currently, El-Sanousi is lobbying to include men in gender programming. She believes that unless male attitudes towards women change there will be few opportunities for inclusive social change. In 2012, she was awarded the Takreem “Arab Woman of the Year” Award. El-Sanousi received a master’s degree in Gender and Development and another in Rural Development, both from Sussex University.

Haleh Esfandiari
UNITED STATES

Haleh Esfandiari is the Director of the Middle East Program at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars in Washington, D.C. She is an expert on Middle Eastern affairs with a special focus on Iran and the Gulf states, transition to democracy, and women's empowerment in the Middle East and North Africa region. Her writing has appeared in a number of scholarly journals, newspapers, magazines, and blogs. Her latest book is My Prison, My Home: One Woman's Story of Captivity in Iran, based on Esfandiari's arrest by the Iranian security authorities in 2007, after which she spent 105 days in solitary confinement in Tehran's Evin Prison. She is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations, and serves on the board of the Peace Research Endowment and on the board of advisors for the Project on Middle East Democracy. She is also a member of the MENA Advisory Panel to the World Bank. Esfandiari earned her Ph.D. from the University of Vienna and holds an honorary degree from Georgetown University Law Center.

Mohammad Fadel
CANADA

Mohammad Fadel is an Associate Professor and the Canada Research Chair for the Law and Economics of Islamic Law at the University of Toronto Faculty of Law. Prior to joining the faculty of law, he practiced law with Sullivan & Cromwell LLP in New York, and clerked for a federal district court judge and a federal appeals judge. He teaches Business Organizations, the Law of International Business and Finance Transactions, Trusts, and Religion and Liberalism: the Case of Islam. Fadel has published numerous articles on Islamic legal history and Islam and liberalism. He obtained his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago and his J.D. from the University of Virginia.

Gregory Gause III
UNITED STATES

Gregory Gause III is a Nonresident Senior Fellow at the Brookings Doha Center and a Professor and Chair of the Political Science Department at the University of Vermont. His research focuses on the international politics of the Middle East, with a particular interest in the Arabian Peninsula and the Persian Gulf. He has published three books, the most recent of which is The International Relations of the Persian Gulf. His articles have appeared in Foreign Affairs, Foreign Policy, Middle East Journal, Security Studies, and in other journals and edited volumes. He was previously on the faculty of Columbia University and a fellow for Arab and Islamic Studies at the Council on Foreign Relations in New York. He was the Kuwait Foundation Visiting Professor of International Relations at the Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University; and a Fulbright Scholar at the American University of Kuwait. He received his Ph.D. in Political Science from Harvard University and his B.A. from St. Joseph’s University.

John L. Esposito
UNITED STATES

John Esposito is a Professor of Religion, International Affairs, and Islamic Studies and is the founding Director of the Prince Alwaleed bin Talal Center for Muslim-Christian Understanding at the Walsh School of Foreign Service, Georgetown University. Esposito specializes in Islam, political Islam from North Africa to Southeast Asia, and religion and international affairs. His more than 45 books include Islamophobia and the Challenge of Pluralism in the 21st Century, Who Speaks for Islam? What a Billion Muslims Really Think (with Dalia Mogahed), and Unholy War: Terror in the Name of Islam. A former president of the Middle East Studies Association of North America and of the American Council for the Study of Islamic Societies, and a member of the World Economic Forum’s Council of 100 Leaders, he is currently President of the American Academy of Religion, a member of the E.C. European Network of Experts on De-Radicalisation, and an ambassador for the United Nations Alliance of Civilizations. Esposito is a recipient of the American Academy of Religion’s Martin E. Marty Award for the Public Understanding of Religion and of Pakistan’s Quaid-i-Azamat Award for Outstanding Contributions in Islamic Studies.
Hafez Ghanem
UNITED STATES

Hafez Ghanem is a Senior Fellow in the Global Economy and Development program at the Brookings Institution. He leads the Arab Economies project, with a focus on the impact of political transition on Arab economic development. He has worked in over 21 countries in Africa, Europe, the Middle East and North Africa, and Central and South East Asia. Prior to joining Brookings, Ghanem worked at the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO) of the United Nations as the assistant director general responsible for the Economic and Social Development Department. Before joining FAO, he spent 24 years on the staff of the World Bank, where he started as a research economist, and then served as a senior economist in West Africa and later South Asia. In 1995, he moved to Europe and Central Asia where he was sector leader for Public Economics and Trade Policy. In 2000, he returned to Africa as country director for Madagascar, Comoros, and Mauritius and Seychelles. In 2004, he became country director for Nigeria, where he led a multinational team of more than 100 professionals, managing the Bank’s loan portfolio of approximately USD 1.5 billion. He holds a Ph.D. in Economics from the University of California, Davis.

Pierre Ghanem
UNITED STATES

Pierre Ghanem is a Senior Correspondent for Al Arabiya News Channel based in Washington, D.C. Prior to joining Al Arabiya he served as executive producer at Al Hurra TV between 2003 and 2007. From 1993 through 2002, Ghanem held multiple positions at the Middle East Broadcasting Center, first as executive producer and later served as bureau chief for one year. Ghanem began his career as a news anchor in 1982 at Tele Liban, a Lebanese news station, where he worked for nine years before leading a successful career in international media. Ghanem has written on a variety of issues and has two forthcoming books in 2013 and 2014. He received his degree in Law from Lebanese University.

Ufuk Gokcen
TURKEY

Ufuk Gokcen is the Ambassador and Permanent Observer of the Organization of Islamic Cooperation (OIC) to the United Nations since April 2010. He served as political adviser to the OIC Secretary General from 2005 to 2010. Prior to that, he was based at the Turkish embassies in Riyadh, Muscat, and Damascus, as well as at the Middle East department of the Turkish Ministry of Foreign Affairs. At the OIC, he played an active role in initiatives to promote engagement with international partners in the fields of peace building, socio-economic development, human rights, good governance, and interfaith dialogue. Through Gokcen’s op-ed writing and engagement with the civil society, he aims to disseminate an accurate picture of the OIC’s moderate vision and constructive activities.

Nashwa Hafez
EGYPT

Nashwa Hafez is Co-Founder of Nebny, an Egyptian development organization committed to improving Egyptian health, education, financial, and employment sectors through a youth-led, locally driven approach. Nebny developed during the Egyptian revolution, in an effort to address the issues of the underprivileged areas of the country. Prior to the Egyptian revolution, Hafez worked at the Rotary Club’s Katameya, Cairo, division treating polio. This ultimately motivated her to manage and coordinate groups of doctors, nurses, hospitals, and sponsors during the revolution in order to treat over 2,260 injured. As a result, Hafez was interviewed by Hala Gorani of CNN for her management and coordination efforts, and she has received numerous awards recognizing her contributions during the Egyptian revolution. Hafez graduated from The American University in Cairo.
Shadi Hamid
QATAR

Shadi Hamid is Director of Research at the Brookings Doha Center and a Fellow at the Saban Center for Middle East Policy at the Brookings Institution. His research focuses on Islamist political parties and democratic reform in the Arab world. Prior to joining Brookings, he was director of research at the Project on Middle East Democracy (POMED) and a Hewlett Fellow at Stanford University’s Center on Democracy, Development, and the Rule of Law. He has also served as a program specialist on public diplomacy at the U.S. State Department and a Legislative Fellow at the Office of U.S. Senator Dianne Feinstein (D-CA). His articles have appeared in The New York Times, The Washington Post, The Atlantic, Foreign Policy, The New Republic, Slate, Forbes, The National Interest, Policy Review, Democracy: A Journal of Ideas, and many other publications. Hamid received his B.S. and M.A. from Georgetown University’s School of Foreign Service and his Ph.D. in Political Science from Oxford University. He is currently conducting doctoral research at the United Nations University.

Leila Hanafi
MOROCCO

Leila Hanafi is the Founder and Chief Counsel of the Alliance for Rule of Law Promotion & Alternative Dispute Resolution (ARPA), and the Co-Founder and Chair of the American Moroccan Legal Network. She was recently selected by the Moroccan government to join the National Inter-Governmental Commission for the Implementation of the Constitution. A Moroccan-American international lawyer, Hanafi is a board member of Generation Development and the Centre International de Médiation et d’Arbitrage; she is also the legal editor and on the editorial board of Morocco World News. Hanafi was selected to serve in leadership positions at a young age, ranging from staff attorney and programs manager of the American Bar’s World Justice Project to becoming one of the World Bank's youngest professionals and winner of the World Bank Middle East and North Africa Innovation Fund. Her experience consists of work in international law, rule of law, and alternative dispute resolution. Hanafi is a graduate of American University, Georgetown University, and The George Washington University Law School. She is currently conducting doctoral research in law at the United Nations University.

Husain Haqqani
PAKISTAN

Husain Haqqani is the Director for South and Central Asia at the Hudson Institute and a Professor of the Practice of International Relations at Boston University. Haqqani served as Pakistan’s ambassador to the United States from 2008-2011 and is widely credited with managing a difficult partnership during a critical phase in the global war on terrorism. He has been a journalist, an academic, and a diplomat, serving as an advisor to four Pakistani prime ministers, including the late Benazir Bhutto. His book, Pakistan Between Mosque and Military, was acclaimed for explaining the roots of Pakistan’s foreign and domestic policies and sold more copies than any other academic book focused on Pakistan in the last decade. Haqqani’s next book, “Magnificent Delusions: Pakistan, the United States, and Global Jihad,” is scheduled to be released in the fall of 2013.

Mazen Hasna
QATAR

Mazen Hasna is the Dean of Qatar University’s College of Engineering. Hasna served in a series of positions and committees while at Qatar University, including appointment as Associate Dean for Academic Affairs at the College of Engineering. He has published regularly in international journals and participated in a series of conferences. His current major research projects focus on wireless communications and engineering accreditation. In 2002 Hasna received the Mathew-Huber Award for Excellence in Transportation Research and Education from the Center for Transportation Studies, University of Minnesota. He is a senior member of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers and its communication and education societies, and a founding member of the Qatar Society of Engineers. Hasna received his Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota, his M.S. from the University of Southern California, and his B.Sc. from Qatar University, all in the field of Engineering.

Adnan M. Hayajneh

QATAR

Adnan M. Hayajneh is a Professor of Political Science in the Department of International Affairs at Qatar University. Hayajneh is the author of over 40 publications, the most recent of which focus on the Arab Spring and U.S.-Middle East relations. His current research considers the new regional forces in the Gulf Cooperation Council (GCC). Previously, he was a professor of Political Science at the Hashemite University, Jordan; and he was associated with a series of institutions, including the United Nations University, Jordan Institute of Diplomacy, University of Jordan, Al-Bayt University, and the University of Arizona. Hayajneh’s primary research interests are international relations, political and economic development, strategic and security studies, conflict resolution, and American foreign policy, with a special focus on the Middle East and GCC region. He received his Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of Arizona.

H.A. Hellyer

EGYPT

H.A. Hellyer is a Nonresident Fellow with the Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World at Brookings. He was formerly the first Middle Eastern-based senior research fellow at the University of Warwick. Hellyer served as deputy convener of the UK Government’s Taskforce on Tackling Radicalization and Extremism in the aftermath of the London bombings in 2005. Hellyer also served as the UK Foreign Office’s first Economic and Social Research Council’s Placement fellow, where he gave expert opinion on Muslim communities and counter-terrorism issues. Hellyer has held senior posts in academia, including visiting professorships at The American University in Cairo and at the Universiti Teknologi in Malaysia. A UN Alliance of Civilizations Global expert, he is a member of the International Institute of Strategic Studies and has written several books and journal articles in the international presses on Europe and the MENA region. He earned his Ph.D. from the University of Warwick in Ethnic Relations and Political Philosophy, and his M.A. in International Political Economy and B.A. in Law from the University of Sheffield.

Dennis R. Hoover

UNITED STATES

Dennis Hoover is Vice President for Research and Publications at the Institute for Global Engagement (IGE) and Editor of its quarterly journal, The Review of Faith & International Affairs. He is co-editor, with Chris Seiple and Pauletta Otis, of The Routledge Handbook of Religion and Security; and co-editor, with Douglas Johnston, of Religion and Foreign Affairs: Essential Readings. Hoover came to IGE in January 2003 from the Leonard E. Greenberg Center for the Study of Religion in Public Life at Trinity College in Hartford, Conn., where he was a resident fellow and associate editor of the center’s journalism review magazine, Religion in the News. Hoover received his Ph.D. in Politics from the University of Oxford.

Randa Fahmy Hudome

UNITED STATES

Randa Fahmy Hudome is the President of Fahmy Hudome International, a strategic consulting firm, which provides critical advice and counsel to international and domestic clientele with an interest in international business transactions and energy policy. An internationally recognized expert in energy policy and global market access, Hudome has more than 25 years of legal and public policy experience, including service in the executive and legislative branches of the U.S. government. Previously, she was appointed as the U.S. Associate Deputy Secretary of Energy, served as counselor to a U.S. Senator, and practiced as an attorney with the law firm of Willkie, Farr, and Gallagher. Hudome’s opinions have been published in The Wall Street Journal, and she appears frequently as an expert analyst on energy and national security issues on NBC’s Today Show, MSNBC, Fox News, CNN, and Al Jazeera. Hudome received her J.D. from the Georgetown University Law Center.
Saad Eddin Ibrahim
EGYPT

Saad Eddin Ibrahim is the Founder and Head of the Ibn Khaldun Center for Development Studies in Cairo, and one of the leading pro-democracy activists in the Arab world. Ibrahim was recently the Wallerstein Distinguished visiting professor at the Center on Religion, Culture, and Conflict at Drew University, and was also a Visiting Professor of Political Science at Harvard University. He was the recipient of the Center for the Study of Islam and Democracy’s annual Muslim Democrat of the Year Award in 2004. Ibrahim was a former political prisoner, having spent nearly three years in jail for his opposition to former Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak’s regime. He has authored or edited more than thirty books and more than a hundred scholarly articles, and has taught at Indiana University, DePauw University, University of California, Los Angeles, Columbia University, New York University, American University of Beirut, The American University in Cairo, and Istanbul Kulture University.

Arsalan Iftikhar
UNITED STATES

Ekmeleddin Ihsanoglu
TURKEY

Ekmeleddin Ihsanoglu is the Secretary General of the Organization of Islamic Cooperation (OIC). Ihsanoglu has been with the OIC since 1980, first as founding director general of the Research Centre for Islamic History, Culture and Arts (IRCICA) in Istanbul. He was the founding head of the Department of History of Science of Istanbul University, as well as the founding chairman of the Turkish Society for History of Science (TBTK) and ISAR Foundation. He also served as the president of the International Union of History and Philosophy of Science (IUHPS) between 2001 and 2005. He has written numerous books, articles, and papers in Turkish, English, and Arabic on science, history of science, Islamic culture, Turkish culture, relations between the Muslim world and the Western world, and Turkish-Arab relations. He received his B.S. at Ain Shams University in 1966 and a master’s degree in Chemistry in 1970. After completing his Ph.D. studies at Ankara University, he did his post-doctoral research at the University of Exeter in the United Kingdom.

Lou Anne King Jensen
UNITED STATES

Lou Anne King Jensen is the Founder and President of the Chrest Foundation, which supports civil society organizations in Turkey that concentrate on increasing gender equality and fostering communication and dialogue through various approaches. She is a licensed master social worker recognized for independent non-clinical practice. Jensen serves on the board of directors of the College First Foundation and Turkish Philanthropy Funds. She is also a member of the Global Leadership Council at the Brookings Institution. Jensen holds equity interests and board positions in several private companies, as well as oversees her family’s liquid assets and public market investments. She holds a B.A. in English and an M.S. in Social Work, both from the University of Texas at Arlington. She also completed postgraduate studies in Peace Research at the University of Oslo, Norway.
Lobna Jeribi
TUNISIA

Lobna Jeribi is a Member of the Political Bureau and Executive Secretariat of the Ettakatol Party, Chairman of the Economic Committee of the Governorate of Tunis’s Regional Council, and a Deputy of the Tunisian Constituent Assembly. In the assembly, Jeribi is Vice Chairman of the Committee on Preamble, Fundamental Principles, and the Revision of the Constitution; and the Rapporteur of the Committee on Finance, Planning, and Region. Previously, Jeribi was the president of the socio-economic committee of the Ettakatol program. In addition to Jeribi’s political activities, she has been actively involved in the engineering field. She is a founding leader of the Service Company in Computer Engineering Technology, and is the author of several publications in scientific journals and conferences on information systems. Jeribi formerly taught, and conducted research in, information systems at the University of Paris 1 Sorbonne and was an expert and project manager in the information systems department at Lyon University, Rhône Alpes, France. Jeribi received her Ph.D. in Information Systems Engineering from the National Institute of Applicant Sciences (INSA), Lyon, France.

Douglas M. Johnston
UNITED STATES

Douglas M. Johnston is President and Founder of the International Center for Religion and Diplomacy. Johnston previously served in senior positions in government, business, the military, and academia. He served as founder and Director of Harvard University’s Senior Executives in National and International Security program. His most recent assignment was as executive vice president and CEO of the Center for Strategic and International Studies. Included among his publications is Religion, Terror, and Error: U.S. Foreign Policy and the Challenge of Spiritual Engagement, winner of the 2011 Book of the Year Award. Johnston is a distinguished graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy and holds an M.P.A. and a Ph.D. in Political Science from Harvard University.

Palwasha Kakar
AFGHANISTAN

Palwasha Kakar is the Director of Women’s Empowerment and Development Programs at the Asia Foundation, where she is responsible for the overall supervision and management of the women’s program. Kakar is an expert on women, Islam, and development with nearly eight years of management experience and a specialization in gender issues in Afghanistan. She recently served as the Foundation’s program manager for the Access to Justice and Women’s Rights in Islam project, and has experience working on projects regarding local governance, civil society, education and gender in Afghanistan. Prior to joining the foundation, Kakar managed a nation-wide small grants program with the United Nations Development Program for Afghanistan’s civil society initiatives and has experience managing social development projects with the World Bank Group dealing with gender, social justice and environmental issues in the region. From 2004-2006, Kakar led the local governance research team specifically focused on researching women’s participation in the National Solidarity Program at the Afghanistan Research and Evaluation Unit. She has a master’s degree in Gender, Politics, and Religion with a specific emphasis on Afghanistan and the surrounding region from Harvard University.

Mohammad Hashim Kamali
MALAYSIA

Mohammad Hashim Kamali is the Founding Chairman and CEO of the International Institute of Advanced Islamic Studies, Malaysia. Kamali was a professor of Islamic law and jurisprudence at the International Islamic University in Malaysia from 1985 to 2007, as well as the dean of the International Institute of Islamic Thought and Civilization. He has taught at the Institute of Islamic Studies at McGill University, Capital University in Ohio, and at the Wissenschaftskolleg in Berlin. Kamali is an original signatory to the ‘Common Word’ between Christians and Muslims. He has served as a member of the Constitution Review Commission of Afghanistan and as an expert on the new constitutions of Iraq, the Maldives, and Somalia. He has an M.A. and Ph.D. in Islamic and Middle Eastern Law from the University of London.
Mehrangiz Kar
IRAN
Mehrangiz Kar is a Visiting Professor at the Pembroke Center for Teaching and Research on Women at Brown University. An Iranian human rights lawyer, speaker, internationally recognized writer, and advocate for human rights throughout the Islamic world, she was previously a visiting scholar at Harvard University, Wellesley College’s Newhouse Center for the Humanities, the Saban Center for Middle East Policy at Brookings, and the Faculty of Law at the University of Cape Town. In 2000, Kar attended a conference held at the Heinrich Böll Institute in Berlin where she discussed the urgent need for constitutional reform in Iran. Upon her return to Iran, she was arrested, taken to Evin Prison, and charged with “acting against national security” and “spreading propaganda against the regime of the Islamic Republic.” She was sentenced to four years imprisonment. Two months into her sentence, Kar was diagnosed with cancer, and under pressure from the European Union, Iranian authorities released her for treatment in the United States. She is the recipient the 2000 PEN/NOVIB Award and in 2004 she was honored by Human Rights First. Kar received her B.A. in Law and Political Science from Tehran University.

Joyce Karam
UNITED KINGDOM
Joyce Karam is the Washington Correspondent for Al-Hayat Newspaper, an international Arabic daily newspaper based in London. Karam has covered American politics extensively since 2004, with a focus on U.S. policy towards the Middle East. Prior to joining Al-Hayat, Karam worked as a journalist at Assafir and Annahar newspapers in Beirut, mostly covering the post-war situation in Lebanon. In 2002, she worked as an editor at the United Nations public affairs offices in Beirut, supervising a weekly newsletter and coordinating regional media events. She is a frequent guest on Arabic television channels and radio programs. Karam holds an M.A. in International Peace and Conflict Resolution and a B.A. Journalism.

Hamid Karzai
AFGHANISTAN
Hamid Karzai was sworn in as President of the Islamic Republic of Afghanistan on December 7, 2004. During the Soviet invasion of Afghanistan, Karzai served as director of Information, and then deputy director of the Political Office for the National Liberation Front led by Professor Sebghatullah Mujadidi. After the formation of the mujahideen’s transitional government in 1989, Karzai was appointed as director of the Foreign Relations Unit in the Office of the President of the Interim Government. When the mujahideen government was established in Kabul in 1992, he was appointed as its deputy foreign minister. Resigning from his post in 1994 amidst the chaos of the ensuing civil war, Karzai returned to Uruzgan province in October 2001 following the American-led invasion and worked to coordinate local efforts to rid Afghanistan of the Taliban and their supporters. On December 5, 2001, he was elected chairman of the Interim Administration of Afghanistan by participants at the U.N.-sponsored Bonn Conference. He, along with the appointed cabinet, took the oath of office on December 22, 2001. His role as leader of the country was confirmed by members of the Emergency Loya Jirga when he was elected president of the Transitional Government. Karzai has been awarded many honors, among them an Honorary Knighthood from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, the Philadelphia Liberty Medal, and the American Bar Association-Asia Rule of Law Award. He received his M.A. in International Relations and Political Science from Simla University in India.

Allen Keiswetter
UNITED STATES
Allen Keiswetter, a retired Senior Foreign Service Officer, is a Scholar at the Middle East Institute; Senior Consultant at the international law firm Dentons US, LLP; and an Adjunct Professor at the University of Maryland. He has taught courses on Islam and the Middle East at the National War College and the National Defense Intelligence College. He served as the senior advisor on the Middle East to the U.S. Delegation to the General Assembly. In his thirty-six years at the Department of State, Keiswetter was Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern Affairs, director of Arabian Peninsula Affairs in the Near East Bureau, and director of the Office of Intelligence Liaison in the Bureau of Intelligence and Research. He served as NATO Deputy Assistant Secretary General for Political Affairs in Brussels. While director of Regional Affairs in the Near East Bureau, Keiswetter chaired the Middle East Peace Process Multilateral Working Group on Water Resources. Previously, he held posts as political counselor in the U.S. Embassy in Saudi Arabia, and Deputy Chief of Mission at the U.S. Embassy in Yemen. He received his A.B. from Dartmouth College, Certificate from Johns Hopkins School of Internation Studies, and an M.P.A. from Harvard University.

Wael Khalil
EGYPT

Wael Khalil is a Founding Member of Egypt’s Masrena movement, which “aspires to bring together Egyptians from all walks of life to achieve the goals of the January 25 revolution, as well as showcase the abilities of Egypt’s youth.” A blogger and socialist activist, Khalil has been active in Palestinian solidarity, anti-war, and democracy movements in Egypt for more than a decade. He is a software engineer by profession.

Hamid Khan
UNITED STATES

Hamid Khan is a Professorial Lecturer of Islamic Law at The George Washington University. He is also a Senior Program Officer at the Rule of Law Center with the U.S. Institute of Peace (USIP), where he works on issues regarding rule of law in Afghanistan, particularly the intersection of customary law and Islamic law as it pertains to women. Khan also teaches a training course on Islamic law for the Institute’s Academy for Peacebuilding. Previously, he worked as a Rule of Law Adviser in USIP’s Kabul office. Before his tenure at USIP, Khan served as a postdoctoral fellow for Stanford Law School’s Afghanistan Legal Education Project. He has lectured on Islamic legal matters in various U.S. government capacities and around the world, including at the NATO School and the U.N. Department of Peace Keeping Operation. Khan served as an advisor to NATO/ISAF on issues of Islamic law, counterinsurgency, and empowering women under Islamic law and theology. Khan received his B.S. in Political Science from the University of Wyoming and his J.D from the University of Michigan Law School.

Humera Khan
UNITED STATES

Humera Khan is the Executive Director of Muflehun, a think tank specializing in preventing radicalization towards violent extremism through research, engagement, and empowerment programs for communities. Her work includes the design and launch of the Viral Peace project for the U.S. Department of State to train youth leaders on the strategies of using social media to build communities and counter hate. In 2012 she received the FBI Director’s Community Leadership Award for her service to the community. Khan also contributes in an advisory capacity to U.S. government agencies, including the FBI; the Departments of State, Justice, and Homeland Security; the Office of the Director of National Intelligence; and the National Counterterrorism Center. Khan earned her M.S. in Technology and Policy, M.S. in Nuclear Engineering, B.S. in Art and Design, and B.S. in Nuclear Engineering, all from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. She also earned her M.A. in Islamic Studies from the School of Islamic and Social Sciences, an affiliate seminary of the Washington Theological Consortium.

Muhammad Shahzad Khan
PAKISTAN

Muhammad Shahzad Khan is the Founding Executive Director of the Chanan Development Association, a national, youth led organization. Khan has devoted himself to empowering young people in Pakistan since 1999. He has vast experience in the fields of intercultural and interfaith dialogue, health/reproductive health, child sexual abuse, gender mainstreaming, violence against women, democracy and human rights, as well as interactive theatre, peer education, and advocacy campaigning. Khan was recently awarded with the International Award for the Health and Dignity of Women and Girls by the Friends of United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA), presented by UNFPA Executive Director Dr. Babatunde Osotimehin and UN Secretary General Ban Ki-moon. He holds a master’s degree in Political Science.

Akihiko Koenuma
JAPAN

Akihiko Koenuma is the Director General of Middle East and Europe Department at Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA). Before his appointment as Director General, Koenuma held a number of managerial positions within JICA, Japan Bank for International Cooperation (JBIC), and the Overseas Economic Cooperation Fund (OECF): senior advisor to director general at JICA General Affairs Department in charge of relations with National Diet members, deputy director general at JICA Africa Department, chief representative of JBIC Paris Office, director of JBIC 5thDivision, Corporate Finance Department in charge of equity participation, private equity, and carbon funds, and chief representative of JBIC and OECF Cairo Office. Through his tenure in JBIC Paris Office and Cairo Office, Koenuma has abundant experiences in handling and managing Japanese ODA loan projects in Sub-Sahara Africa as well as Middle East and North Africa region, including Egypt, Jordan, Libya, Morocco, and Tunisia. Koenuma joined OECF in 1985. Koenuma graduated from Sophia University in Japan and finished Universite Paris I 3é cycle in Economics.

Nikahang Kowsar
UNITED STATES

Nikahang Kowsar is a professional cartoonist, journalist, and a previous winner of the International Award for Courage in Editorial Cartooning. He was imprisoned in Iran in 2000 after one of his cartoons criticizing Ayatollah Mesbah Yazdi incited political controversy weeks before the parliamentary elections. Kowsar is also a founder and editor of Khodnevis.org, a Persian-language citizen journalism platform, and Khodetoons, a citizen-cartooning platform for non-cartoonists. Kowsar fled Iran for Canada after receiving a death threat in 2003 and his cartoons have since been published by many American, Canadian, and international outlets. He is a member of The New York Times Syndicate and has appeared on CNN, BBC, CBC, CTV, VOA, and many other shows as an expert on Iran. CBC made a documentary about him in 2005 entitled The Bloggers’ War, and he was also featured on NPR, BBC, Foreign Policy, and the Columbia Review of Journalism.

Kathleen Kuehnast
UNITED STATES

Kathleen Kuehnast is Director of the Center for Gender and Peacebuilding at the United States Institute of Peace. She is co-editor of Women and War: Power and Protection in the 21st Century (2011). As a socio-cultural anthropologist, her work examines the impact of political and economic transitions on societal gender roles. Kuehnast is a recipient of the Mellon Foreign Fellowship at the Library of Congress (2000) and the Kennan Institute for Advanced Russian Studies Fellowship (1999) at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars. She lived several years in Kyrgyzstan, where she researched and wrote extensively on the impact of post-Soviet transition on Muslim women of Central Asia. Kuehnast holds a Ph.D. in Socio-cultural Anthropology from the University of Minnesota.

Zahra’ Langhi
LIBYA

Zahra’ Langhi is the Co-Founder of the Libyan Women’s Platform for Peace (LWPP), a movement advocating for women’s socio-political empowerment and peace-building. In conjunction with Karama and U.N. Women, she coordinated the Libyan Women’s Political Empowerment Program, an initiative aimed at empowering women in Libya to become active participants and leaders of political, economic, and social reforms, and to ensure that gender equality and women’s rights are fully integrated in democratic transition, including in governance processes, legislation, and policies. Langhi led LWPP’s initiative of lobbying for the introduction of the “zipper list” (alternation of males and females in political parties) in the election law, which secured 17.5 percent of the seats in the National Congress for women.
Langhi co-produced and presented a television program on the elections of the National Congress and the democratic transition in Libya. She earned her M.A. in Middle Eastern History from The American University in Cairo.

Farhan Latif
UNITED STATES

Farhan Latif is the Chief Operating Officer and Director of Policy Impact at the Institute for Social Policy and Understanding, a think tank focused on providing expert analysis, insight, and context to critical issues facing the United States, with an emphasis on issues relating to Muslim communities. Latif previously served as a director in the Office of Institutional Advancement at the University of Michigan. As a social entrepreneur, he founded Strategic Inspirations, a firm focused on building the capacity of non-governmental organizations and scaling for greater social impact. Latif is also a fellow of the American Muslim Civic Leadership Institute through University of Southern California and Georgetown University. Latif received an M.A. from Harvard University, having completed a specialized interdisciplinary program focused on Social Entrepreneurship, Philanthropy, and Education. He also holds a B.B.A. in Business Management and Marketing, and has completed graduate work in Nonprofit Management at the University of Michigan-Dearborn.

Hillel Levine
UNITED STATES

Hillel Levine is a Professor of Sociology and Religion at Boston University. For more than 25 years, Levine has been devoted to undergraduate, graduate, professional, and adult non-professional education at Harvard, Yale, and now Boston University. He has held visiting professorships in Japan, China, Poland, the Soviet Union, Brazil, and Israel. Levine is the president of the International Center for Conciliation, an organization that aspires to create enduring peace in conflict-torn communities. Levine has written five books and many articles on ethnic violence, normative conflict, and how they may be resolved. His research provided the basis for an Oscar winning documentary and two of his books are being made into documentaries and a feature-length dramatization. He is a popular lecturer, guest columnist in newspapers, and makes frequent radio and television appearances. Levine received his Ph.D. from Harvard University.

Amira Maaty
UNITED STATES

Amira Maaty is a Program Officer in the Middle East and North Africa division of the National Endowment for Democracy (NED), where she focuses on Egypt and Libya. Prior to joining the NED, she served as a senior program officer at IREX overseeing international training and education programs. She has also held positions at Internews Network, coordinating journalism training programs in the MENA region. Maaty holds a bachelor's degree in International Affairs from The George Washington University and a master's degree in International Peace and Conflict Resolution from American University.

Mohamed Magid
UNITED STATES

Mohamed Magid is the Executive Director of the All Dulles Area Muslim Society in Virginia and President of the Islamic Society of North America. Magid is a member of the National Interfaith Planning Committee for Domestic Violence and the Federal Bureau of Investigation’s Muslim, Sikh, and Arab Advisory Board. He is the Chairman of the Fairfax County Faith Communities in Action, a board member of the Fairfax County Partnership for Youth, and a member of the George Mason University Campus Ministry. Magid is the Vice Chairman of Muflehun, a think tank focused on confronting violent extremism through research-driven preventative programs within a religious paradigm. Magid has a long history of commitment to public service through organizations, such as The Peaceful Families Project, Annual Twinning of Mosques and Synagogues, Interfaith Conference of Metropolitan Washington Assembly, and the Buxton Interfaith Initiative. He has written for The Washington Post and has been profiled in Time. In May 2005, he won the Fairfax County Human Rights Commission Human Rights Award.
Abdoul Aziz Mahamadou Maiga
MALI

Abdoul Aziz Mahamadou Maiga is the Representative for Religious Affairs and Islamic Cooperation at the Ministry of Religious Affairs in Mali. Previously, he was the Islamic Affairs officer for the Embassy of Saudi Arabia in Bamako, Mali. Prior to that, Maiga was a professor at the College of Technology and Business Administration at the University of Bamako. He has also led a coalition for education, training, and advocacy for Mali’s refugee camps, and has supervised implementation of charitable social and health programs all over the country. Maiga has participated in a series of conferences, including the Muslim World League Conference in Mecca and the International Islamic Conference for Dialogue. Maiga received his Ph.D. from the Faculty of Arts and Humanities at the University of Mohammed V, Morocco, and his M.A. in Law at the Islamic University of Medina. He also completed post-graduate studies at the Dar Al Hadith Alhassania Institute for Islamic Studies in Morocco.

Sanaa Makhlouf
UNITED KINGDOM

Sanaa Aly Marei Makhlouf is a Senior Instructor for the Department of Rhetoric and Composition at The American University in Cairo. She twice participated in the al-Azhar delegation to the Muslim-Christian Summit: in 2010 to the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C.; and in 2012 in Beirut, Lebanon. Makhlouf has been an instructor of writing and writing research since 1997. She was a language and copy-editor for the Institute for the Study of Islam in the Modern World in the Netherlands from 2004-2009. Makhlouf is a Ph.D. candidate at Harvard University with an ongoing dissertation, titled “Shades of Tolerance: On the Spiritual Writings of al-Amir ‘Abd al-Qadir al-Jaza’iri,” in the Department of Near Eastern Languages and Civilizations. She completed her M.A. in Early Islamic History at The American University in Cairo and received an M.A. in Political Philosophy from Harvard University. Makhlouf received a B.A. in English and Comparative Literature from The American University in Cairo.

Alexey Malashenko
RUSSIA

Alexey Malashenko is the Co-Chair of the Carnegie Moscow Center’s Religion, Society, and Security Program. He is a member of the RIA Novosti Advisory Council. He serves on the editorial boards of the journals Central Asia and the Caucasus and Acta Eurasica and the newsletter Russia and the Muslim World, and is a board member of the International Federation for Peace and Conciliation. Previously, Malashenko taught at the National Research University Higher School of Economics and at the Moscow State Institute of International Relations. From 1976 to 1982 and again from 1986 to 2001, Malashenko worked at the Institute of Oriental Studies at the Russian Academy of Sciences as a research fellow, Head of the Islamic Department, and as a Senior Associate. In 1990, he was a Visiting Professor at Colgate University in New York. Malashenko served as editor of the journal Problems of Peace and Socialism. Malashenko is the author and editor of about twenty books, including: Islam in Central Asia, Russia’s Restless Frontier, The Islamic Alternative and the Islamist Project, Russia and Islam and My Islam.

Abdul-Rehman Malik
UNITED KINGDOM

Abdul-Rehamn Malik is a journalist and Program Manager for the Radical Middle Way, an organization that works with grass-roots partners around the world to provide powerful, faith-inspired guidance and innovative tools to enable change, promote social justice, and combat exclusion and violence. Radical Middle Way has worked in the Indonesia, Malaysia, Mali, Morocco, Pakistan, Singapore, Sudan, and the United Kingdom. An experienced journalist and commentator, Malik is a regular contributor to BBC Radio 2’s Pause for Thought.
His radio essay Faith and 9/11 was broadcast on the 10th anniversary of the attacks and awarded second prize at the prestigious Sandford St Martin Awards for excellence in broadcasting about religion. Malik’s BBC Radio 4 documentary Islam Without God, which explored the increasingly public discourse of disbelief among young Muslims, both in the east and in the west, was broadcast in February 2013.

Shahid Malik
UNITED KINGDOM

Shahid Malik is Chairman of Global Cooperation and Development Partnerships. In 2005, Malik was elected Member of Parliament in the United Kingdom and served until 2010. He was appointed Minister of International Development in 2007, making him Britain’s first Muslim minister. He also served as Justice Minister; Home Office Minister; and Minister for Race, Faith, and Community Cohesion. He served as vice-chair of UNESCO UK, signed the United Kingdom’s first ten-year Middle East aid agreement (with Yemen), and observed Palestinian parliamentary and presidential elections. During his tenure in government, he was responsible for the United Kingdom’s work with the Asian Development Bank, the Inter-American Development Bank, and the Caribbean Development Bank, and developed a memorandum of understanding with the Islamic Development Bank. He has also served as chair of the National Faith Communities Council, chair of the Thames Gateway, Equality Commissioner for Northern Ireland, and Race Equality Commissioner for Great Britain. Malik received an honorary Ph.D. from Bradford University.

Peter Mandaville
UNITED STATES

Peter Mandaville is a Nonresident Senior Fellow at the Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World at Brookings and Director of the Ali Vurak Ak Center for Global Islamic Studies at George Mason University. He previously served on the Secretary of State’s Policy Planning Staff at the U.S. Department of State. He was the founding director of GMU’s Center for Global Studies and his visiting affiliations have included American University, the Center for Strategic and International Studies, and the Pew Research Center. Born and raised in the Middle East—the third generation of his family to live in the region—his recent research has taken him to a wide range of Muslim settings such as Pakistan, Indonesia, Malaysia, and West Africa. He is the author and co-editor of a half dozen books, including Global Political Islam and Transnational Muslim Politics: Reimagining the Umma. He has testified before the U.S. Congress on political Islam and authored numerous book chapters and journal articles, and contributed to publications such as Foreignpolicy.com, the International Herald Tribune, and the Guardian. He has also consulted widely for the government, media, and nonprofit sectors on contemporary Muslim world affairs.

Paul Marshall
UNITED STATES

Paul Marshall is a Senior Fellow at the Hudson Institute’s Center for Religious Freedom. He is the chair of the board of The Media Project. He has edited more than twenty books on religion, politics, and religious freedom, including more recently, Silenced: How Apostasy and Blasphemy Codes Are Choking Freedom Worldwide (2011), Blind Spot: When Journalists Don’t Get Religion (2009), and Religious Freedom in the World (2008). He is the author of several hundred articles, and his writings have been translated into more than 21 languages. Marshall is a Senior Fellow at both the Lemeina Institute in Jakarta, and the Claremont Institute in California. Previously, he was a senior fellow at Freedom House. Marshall has a Ph.D. from York University in Political Philosophy.

Hideki Matsunaga
JAPAN

Hideki Matsunaga is the Chief Representative of the Japan International Cooperation Agency (JICA) Egypt office, supervising JICA operations in Egypt, Yemen, and the Gulf countries. He has served in numerous professional and management positions for JICA, the Japan Bank for International Cooperation, and the United Nations Development Program. For over ten years, Matsunaga worked in Iran, Palestine, Jordan, Syria, and Iraq, where he supervised Iraqi reconstruction from the time of the military invasion until 2011. Before transitioning to Egypt in 2012, Matsunaga served as team leader for the Fukushima and Iwate regions of Japan under the umbrella of Japan Platform, a Japanese nongovernmental organization dedicated to providing humanitarian relief and recovery after the earthquake and tsunami of March 2011.

Theodore McCarrick
UNITED STATES

Theodore McCarrick is the Cardinal Archbishop Emeritus of Washington, having previously served as the Archbishop of Washington from 2001 until 2006. In 2011 he was a Distinguished Visiting Scholar at the Library of Congress. In 2001, Pope John Paul II elevated him to the College of Cardinals, and in 2005, he was one of 115 Cardinals who participated in the conclave that elected the new pope, Pope Benedict XVI. Cardinal McCarrick is the past chair of the domestic and international policy committees for the United States Conference of Catholic Bishops, former Chancellor of The Catholic University of America, former President of The Catholic University of Puerto Rico in Ponce, and former Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Basilica of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception. He has long served on the Board of Directors of Catholic Relief Services and as a member of the Vatican's Pontifical Council for Promoting Christian Unity, the Pontifical Council for Justice and Peace, the Pontifical Council for the Pastoral Care of Migrants and Itinerant Peoples, and the Pontifical Commission for Latin America. He received his Ph.D. in Sociology from The Catholic University of America.

Tamer Meky
EGYPT

Tamer Meky is a Member of Egypt’s Shura Council (upper chamber of Parliament), where he serves as the General Secretary of the National Security, Arab and Foreign Affairs Committee. Meky co-founded the Asala Party, is a member of the supreme committee of the party, and serves as chairman of its National Security and Foreign Affairs Committee. He holds a bachelor’s degree in Law as well as a degree in Police and Security Sciences.

William Miller
UNITED STATES

William Miller is the Senior Advisor to the U.S.-Iran Program at Search for Common Ground and Senior Public Policy Scholar at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars. Previously, he served as the U.S. ambassador to Ukraine (1993-1998), and as a U.S. foreign service officer for six years in Iran. Miller worked on Capitol Hill for fourteen years, acting as staff director for three Senate committees. Miller is a former associate dean and professor at The Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University, and he has taught at the Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies and at Harvard University. Miller holds a B.A. from Williams College, an M.A. from Oxford University, and he completed doctoral coursework at Harvard University.

Dalia Mogahed
UNITED STATES

Dalia Mogahed is President and CEO of Mogahed Consulting, a Washington, D.C., based executive coaching and consulting firm specializing in Muslim societies and the Middle East. She is the former executive director and senior analyst for the Gallup Center for Muslim Studies where she led the analysis of surveys of Muslims worldwide, including in the U.S. and Europe. With John L. Esposito, she co-authored the groundbreaking book Who Speaks for Islam? What a Billion Muslims Really Think. In 2009, President Barack Obama appointed Mogahed to the President’s Advisory Council on Faith-Based and Neighborhood Partnerships, making her the first Muslim-American woman to hold a position of this seniority. A member of the World Economic Forum’s Global Agenda Council on the Arab World, she serves on the boards of Freedom House and Soliya. Arabian Business magazine recognized her as the sixth most influential Arab woman in the world. Mogahed’s analysis has appeared in a number of leading publications, including The Wall Street Journal, Foreign Policy, the Harvard International Review, and many other academic and popular journals. Her audiences have included heads of state, parliamentarians from around the world, and religious leaders from every faith. She received her M.B.A. from the Joseph M. Katz Graduate School of Business at the University of Pittsburgh and her undergraduate degree in Chemical Engineering with a minor in Arabic from the University of Wisconsin.

Alia Moubayed
UNITED KINGDOM

Alia Moubayed is a Director and Senior Economist at Barclays Emerging Markets Research Department, with primary responsibility for the Middle East and North Africa. Prior to that, Moubayed worked at the World Bank in Washington, D.C., as a senior economist responsible for research and policy dialogue at the Economic Policy Department of the Europe and Central Asia region. Before assuming that role, she worked as an economist covering regional integration issues in the western Balkans, and served as country economist on various country teams including those of Albania, Indonesia, and Serbia and Montenegro. Moubayed has also held research and policy responsibilities in various economic institutions of the Government of Lebanon over a period of six years. She served as chief of service at the Research Department of the Central Bank, as advisor to the Minister of Economy and Trade, and was also the managing director for the Economic and Social Fund for Development at the Council for Development and Reconstruction. Moubayed holds degrees in Economics, Finance, and Public Policy from the American University of Beirut and the Ecole Nationale d’Administration (ENA) in France.

Mouaz Moustafa
UNITED STATES

Mouaz Moustafa is the Political Director for the Syrian Emergency Task Force and United for a Free Syria, and a board member of the Coalition for a Democratic Syria. He advocates on behalf of the pro-democracy movement in his native Syria by working closely with Free Syrian Army commanders and prominent activists inside of Syria. A former staffer for Congressman Vic Snyder and Senator Blanche Lincoln, Moustafa spent four and a half years working in Congress before leaving to work briefly with the Egyptian U.S.-based opposition and the Libyan U.S.-based opposition. During this period, Moustafa was the executive director of the Libyan Council of North America and political director of the Libyan Emergency Task Force and worked closely with top officials within the Transitional National Council. Moustafa has been featured prominently in several media outlets for his work regarding the Civilian Administrative Councils, including NPR and USA Today.

Riefqi Muna
INDONESIA

Riefqi Muna is Head of Research & Development for the Muhammadiyah Central Board. He is also coordinator of the ASEAN research group at the Research Centre for Politics in the Indonesian Institute of Sciences (LIPI). Muna was co-founder and a member of the executive board of the TIFA Foundation, Jakarta. His academic publications include “Democracy and Human Rights in ASEAN: Concept and Development,” in Adriana Elisabeth (ed.), Implementation of Democracy and Human Rights in Indonesia, the Philippines and Thailand; Energy Security Management: Nonmilitary Security Perspectives; Nuclear Safety in Southeast Asia: Issue, Challenges and Regional Strategy, in Rizal Sukma et.al. (ed.); “Local Ownership and Security Sector Reform in Indonesia,” in Local Ownership in Security Sector Reform; “Securitization of Translational Crime in Indonesia,” in Mely Cabalero-Anthony, Ralf Emmers and Amitav Acharya, Non-Traditional Security in Asia: Dilemma of Securitization. Muna obtained his Ph.D. from the Faculty of Defence and Security at the Royal Military College of Science, Cranfield University, United Kingdom; his master’s degree in Defence Studies from the Australian Defence Force Academy; and his bachelor’s degree in International Relations from the Universitas Muhammadiyah Yogyakarta.
Eiman Mustafawi
QATAR

Eiman Mustafawi is Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and Assistant Professor in the Department of English Literature and Linguistics at Qatar University (QU). She has previously worked as a research assistant and teaching assistant in the Department of Linguistics at the University of Ottawa, joining QU in 2006. Mustafawi has participated in many international conferences and published several articles in journals related to her field. She specializes in theoretical phonology and received her Ph.D. in Linguistics from the University of Ottawa in 2006. Her Ph.D. dissertation was nominated for two awards: the Governor General’s Gold Medal and the Pierre Laberge Prize for outstanding doctoral dissertations. Her M.A. studies focused on the linguistic constraints on the manifestations of linguistic outcomes of bilingualism.

Vitaly Naumkin
RUSSIA

Vitaly Naumkin is the Director of the Institute of Oriental Studies, Corresponding Member of the Russian Academy of Sciences, and Professor and Chair of the Faculty of World Politics at Moscow State University. In 2003, he served as a professor in the Department of Political Science, University of California, Berkeley, and in 1991 was a visiting professor at the American University in Cairo. Naumkin is the author of over 500 publications, including books, chapters, and articles in a number of languages. He has received numerous national and international awards and decorations, and he is a member of the Consultative Board for the Security Council of Russia, the Consultative Council for the Minister of Foreign Affairs, and the Academic Board of the Russian Council for Foreign Affairs. Naumkin also serves as the chairman of the Russian Oriental Society and is a member of the International Institute for Strategic Studies. He is a Goodwill Ambassador for the U.N. Alliance of Civilizations. Naumkin completed his doctoral studies in the subjects of Arab and Islamic History and Sciences at Moscow State University.

Ronald Neumann
UNITED STATES

Ronald Neumann is the President of the American Academy of Diplomacy, where he focuses on efforts to expand U.S. Department of State and U.S. Agency for International Development personnel to enable these institutions to carry out their responsibilities. He was formerly Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Department of State and served as Ambassador to three countries: Algeria, Bahrain, and the Islamic Republic of Afghanistan. Before Afghanistan, Neumann, a career member of the Senior Foreign Service, served in Baghdad from February 2004 with the Coalition Provisional Authority and then as Embassy Baghdad’s principal interlocutor with the Multinational Command, where he was deeply involved in coordinating the political part of military action. Earlier in his career, he was Deputy Chief of Mission in Abu Dhabi, United Arab Emirates, and in Sanaa, Yemen, Principal Officer in Tabriz, Iran, and Economic/Commercial Officer in Dakar, Senegal. Neumann is the author of The Other War: Winning and Losing in Afghanistan, along with a number of other monographs and articles. He served as an Army infantry officer in Vietnam and holds a Bronze Star, Army Commendation Medal, and Combat Infantry Badge. He earned his M.A. in Political Science and B.A. in History from the University of California, Riverside.

Gerd Nonneman
QATAR

Gerd Nonneman is the Dean of the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service in Qatar. He was a professor of International Relations and Middle East Politics at the University of Exeter, where he also directed the Institute of Arab & Islamic Studies. A former director of the British Society for Middle Eastern Studies, he is Associate Editor of the Journal of Arabian Studies. Among his recent publications are: Yemen, Saudi Arabia and the Gulf States; “Europe, the U.S. and the Gulf after the Cold War,” in Victor Mauer and Daniel Möckli (eds.), European-American Relations and the Middle East; “Terrorism and Political Violence in the Middle East and North Africa,” in Asaf Siniver (ed.), International Terrorism. post 9/11; “Political Reform in the Gulf Monarchies,” in Anoushiravan Ehteshami and Steven M. Wright (eds.), Reform in the Middle East Oil Monarchies; Saudi Arabia in the Balance; and Analyzing Middle East Foreign Policies. Nonneman holds a Ph.D. in Political Science from the University of Exeter.

Iqbal Noor Ali
UNITED STATES

Iqbal Noor Ali is a Senior Advisor at the Aga Khan Development Network (AKDN), a group of development agencies, institutions, and programs in over thirty countries that work on issues related to the environment, health, education, architecture, culture, microfinance, rural development, disaster reduction, the promotion of private-sector enterprise, and the revitalization of historic cities. Noor Ali facilitates strategic international partnerships for the AKDN and represents the network’s interests in various international settings. Before his current role, he served as chief executive officer of AKDN USA for twenty-five years, which followed five years with AKDN’s Industrial Promotion Services in Canada. As CEO of AKDN USA, he worked closely with the development community in the United States, serving on the boards and committees of various organizations such as InterAction, the Council on Foundations, the Independent Sector, and the Advisory Committee on Voluntary Foreign Assistance, which advises the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) Administrator on U.S. foreign assistance. He received a bachelor’s degree in Commerce from Karachi University, pursued an M.B.A., and then moved to Canada in 1969 to pursue further studies in business and finance.

Lida Sahar Noory
UNITED STATES

Lida Sahar Noory is a Senior Advisor for Afghanistan in the Secretary’s Office of Global Women’s Issues at the U.S. Department of State. Noory has worked with delegations of Afghan women activists, government officials, and non-governmental organizations to support the role of Afghan women and girls socially, politically, and economically. Previously, Noory served as director of foreign policy and international women’s issues at the Independent Women’s Forum. There, she concentrated on democracy education and international women’s issues in both Iraq and Afghanistan. Throughout her career, Noory has focused on development and implementation of training programs, particularly on the issues of democracy, women’s rights, religious freedom, political activism in a democracy, issues of governance, free markets, and micro-enterprise. Her opinion editorials and comments have appeared in The Washington Post, National Review Online, Human Events Online and The D.C. Examiner. Noory holds a B.A. in Media Studies and in Studies of Women and Gender from the University of Virginia.

Michael O’Hanlon
UNITED STATES

Michael O’Hanlon is a Senior Fellow with the Center for 21st Century Security and Intelligence and director of research for the Foreign Policy program at the Brookings Institution, where he specializes in U.S. defense strategy, the use of military force, and American foreign policy. He is a visiting lecturer at Princeton University, an adjunct professor at Johns Hopkins University, and a member of the International Institute for Strategic Studies. Most recently, O’Hanlon is author of Healing the Wounded Giant: Maintaining Military Preeminence while Cutting the Defense Budget; Bending History: Barack Obama’s Foreign Policy with Martin Indyk and Kenneth Lieberthal; The Wounded Giant: America’s Armed Forces in an Age of Austerity; A Skeptic’s Case for Nuclear Disarmament; Toughing It Out in Afghanistan with Hassina Sherjan; and The Science of War. He has also written extensively for such publications as The Washington Post, The New York Times, Los Angeles Times, Foreign Affairs, The Washington Times, and The Japan Times. O’Hanlon has also contributed to The Financial Times, The Wall Street Journal, as well as CNN, MSNBC, BBC, FOX and Al-Hurra. He received his B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. from Princeton University.

Manal Omar
UNITED STATES

Manal Omar is the Director of North Africa, Iraq, and Iran Programs at the United States Institute of Peace. Omar was a member of the Libya Stabilization Team under the National Transitional Council formed during the Libyan revolution.
Previously, she was Regional Program Manager for the Middle East for Oxfam, Great Britain. She also worked with Women for Women International as Regional Coordinator for Afghanistan, Iraq, and Sudan. She is the author of Barefoot in Baghdad: A Story of Identity—My Own and What it Means to Be a Woman in Chaos. She was also named among the “Top 500 World’s Most Influential Arabs” by Arabia Business Power in 2011 and 2012, and among the “500 Most Influential Muslims in the World” by Georgetown University and The Royal Islamic Strategic Studies Centre in 2009. She holds an M.A. in Arab Studies from Georgetown University and a B.A. in International Relations from George Mason University.

Hibaaq Osman
SOMALIA

Hibaaq Osman is the Founder and CEO of Karama, a regional non governmental organization. A global political strategist working in the Middle East and Africa, Osman has worked to build institutions to promote peace, democracy, and human rights globally. Osman conceives visionary approaches to end violence against women and address its multi-sectoral causes and consequences. She previously founded the Global Dignity Fund and the Think Tank for Arab Women. Through Karama, Osman initiated the launch of platforms for peace in Libya, Syria, and Yemen. Named one of the 500 most influential Muslims, she serves on advisory boards including the U.N. Women’s Global Civil Society Advisory Group and the League of Arab States Expert Committee on Women, Peace, and Security.

Thomas Pickering
UNITED STATES

Thomas Pickering is currently Vice Chairman of Hills & Company, an international consulting firm. He retired in June 2006 as Senior Vice President for International Relations of the Boeing Company, where he was employed following his retirement from the Foreign Service as Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs. Before that, Pickering had served as U.S. Ambassador to Russia, India, the United Nations in New York, Israel, El Salvador, Nigeria, and Jordan in a career that spanned more than forty years in the U.S. Department of State. He was Assistant Secretary of State for Oceans, Environment and Science from 1978 to 1981 and Executive Secretary of the State Department and Special Assistant to Secretary William Rogers and Henry A. Kissinger from 1973 to 1974. He served in the U.S. Navy, rising to the rank of Lieutenant Commander on active duty from 1956 to 1959 and in the reserve until 1964. He holds a bachelor’s degree from Bowdoin College, a master’s degree from The Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, and a master’s degree from the University of Melbourne in Australia, where he studied on a Fulbright Scholarship.

Ebrahim Rasool
SOUTH AFRICA

Ebrahim Rasool is South Africa’s Ambassador to the United States. Before joining the embassy, he served as a Member of Parliament in the National Assembly, special advisor to the State President of the Republic of South Africa, and Premier (Governor) of the Western Cape Province. Rasool has a long history of involvement in the anti-apartheid struggle and leadership in the United Democratic Front and the African National Congress. For his contribution to South Africa, Rasool has received a number of awards. including the Visionary Leadership and Public Good Award from the World Congress of Muslim Philanthropists; the Award for Commitment and Leadership in Fight Against Crime from Business Against Crime; the London Financial Times Foreign Direct Investment Africa Personality of the Year Award; and the Nelson Mandela Award for Health and Human Rights. Rasool is the founder of the World for All Foundation, a foundation that rethinks the intellectual tools available to Muslims and faith communities, that creates co-operative relations between faiths, cultures, and communities at a global level. Rasool speaks on a range of topics including politics, governance, religion, and Islam. He received a Bachelor of Arts and a Higher Diploma in Education from the University of Cape Town.

Amina Rasul-Bernardo

PHILIPPINES

Amina Rasul-Bernardo is the Director of the Mindanao Development Authority, President of the Philippine Center for Islam and Democracy, Managing Trustee of the Magbassa Kita Foundation, Inc, and a Trustee of the National Movement for Free Elections. She is a columnist with Business World, and has written books and articles on the Mindanao conflict, Islam, and democracy. Rasul-Bernardo led numerous initiatives to organize national networks of Muslim religious leaders and was awarded the “Muslim Democrat of the Year for 2007” by the Center for Islam and Democracy. She served as the presidential advisor on Youth Affairs of former President Fidel V. Ramos, the former commissioner of the National Commission on the Role of Filipino Women, and the former director of the Philippine National Oil Corporation and the Development Bank of the Philippines.

Bruce Riedel

UNITED STATES

Bruce Riedel is Director of the Intelligence Project at the Brookings Institution and a Senior Fellow at the Saban Center for Middle East Policy at Brookings. Riedel also currently teaches at the Johns Hopkins University School for Advanced International Studies, and just released his latest book, Avoiding Armageddon: America, India and Pakistan to the Brink and Back. He retired from the Central Intelligence Agency in 2006 after 30 years of service. He was a senior advisor on South Asia and the Middle East to the last four Presidents of the United States, as part of the National Security Council staff at the White House. Riedel was also Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for the Near East and South Asia at the Pentagon and a senior advisor to NATO in Brussels. In January 2009 President Barack Obama asked him to chair a review of American policy towards Afghanistan and Pakistan, and in 2011 he served as an expert advisor to the prosecution of al-Qa‘ida terrorist Omar Farooq Abdulmutallab in Detroit. Riedel received his M.A. from Harvard University and the Royal College of Defense Studies in London and his B.A. from Brown University. He is a recipient of the Intelligence Medal of Merit and the Distinguished Intelligence Career Medal.

David Roberts

QATAR

David Roberts is Director of the Qatar office of the Royal United Services Institute (RUSI). Roberts has lived, worked, and studied throughout the Middle East, including nine months in Qatar conducting research for his thesis. He has written several book chapters on the Gulf, authored numerous editorials, presented his work at international conferences, and is regularly sought after for commentary by the international print, television, and radio media. Roberts holds an undergraduate degree in International Relations from the University of St. Andrews and a master’s in Diplomacy from Nottingham University. He is currently completing his Ph.D., focusing on Qatar’s security and international relations, at Durham University.

Charles Robertson

UNITED STATES

Charles Robertson is the Canon to the Presiding Bishop of The Episcopal Church and Distinguished Visiting Professor at the General Theological Seminary in New York. He serves on several national and international boards, including the Governing Board of the National Council of Churches and the Anglican-Roman Catholic Theological Consultation. Robertson is General Editor of the Studies in Episcopal and Anglican Theology series through Peter Lang Publishing, and has also written many books and articles including the upcoming SkyLight Illuminations volume, “The Book of Common Prayer: A Spiritual Treasure Chest.”

Max Rodenbeck
UNITED STATES

Max Rodenbeck is the Chief Middle East Correspondent for The Economist. He has served in this position since 2000, covering the region from Morocco to Iran, and topics ranging from wars in Iraq and Lebanon to radical Islam, Arabic pop culture, and the ancient art of distilling arak. His book Cairo: The City Victorious has been published in eight languages. Rodenbeck grew up in Cairo, having moved there when his father took up an academic position at The American University in Cairo in the 1960s. He is a frequent contributor to publications such as The New York Review of Books, The New York Times, and Foreign Policy.

Josh Rogin
UNITED STATES

Josh Rogin is a Senior Correspondent for Newsweek and The Daily Beast. Until last month, he wrote the daily Web column The Cable, focusing on national security and foreign policy issues, for Foreign Policy, which also appeared bi-weekly in the print edition of The Washington Post. Previously, Rogin covered defense and foreign policy as a staff writer for the Congressional Quarterly, writing extensively on Iraq, Afghanistan, Guantánamo Bay, U.S.-Asia relations, defense budgeting and appropriations, and the defense lobbying and contracting industries. Prior to that, he covered military modernization, cyber warfare, space, and missile defense for Federal Computer Week magazine. He has also served as Pentagon Staff Reporter for the Asahi Shimbun, Japan’s leading daily newspaper, in its Washington, D.C., bureau, where he reported on U.S.-Japan relations, Chinese military modernization, and the North Korean nuclear crisis. Rogin graduated from The George Washington University’s Elliott School of International Affairs.

Laura Rozen
UNITED STATES

Laura Rozen writes the Back Channel news-blog for Al-Monitor and is a columnist for World Politics Review. She previously served as senior foreign policy reporter for Politico and Yahoo! News and wrote the Cable blog for Foreign Policy magazine. Rozen has reported from the Balkans, Russia, and Turkey. Her reporting has been published by The Boston Globe, the Los Angeles Times, The Washington Post, The Christian Science Monitor, the Forward, Tablet, National Journal, Mother Jones, The American Prospect, and Washington Monthly. She has appeared as a guest on CNN, NPR, the BBC, MSNBC, and other news outlets. Rozen received her Master in Public Administration from the Harvard Kennedy School.

Natan Sachs
UNITED STATES

Natan Sachs is a Fellow at the Saban Center for Middle East Policy at the Brookings Institution. He is also an Adjunct Assistant Professor at the Security Studies Program at Georgetown University’s School of Foreign Service. Before joining Brookings, Sachs was a Fulbright Fellow in Indonesia, where he conducted quantitative research on the effects of religious and national identity on inter-ethnic relations, and a Hewlett Fellow at Stanford’s Center on Democracy, Development, and the Rule of Law (CDDRL). His work currently focuses on Israel’s foreign policy and domestic politics, and the Arab-Israeli conflict. He is currently writing a book on the domestic politics of Israeli foreign policy, with an emphasis on the interplay of grand-strategy and party politics. Sachs holds a Ph.D. in Political Science from Stanford University.

Abdullah Saeed
AUSTRALIA

Abdullah Saeed is the Director of the National Centre of Excellence for Islamic Studies and Sultan of Oman Professor of Arab and Islamic Studies at the University of Melbourne, Australia. His publications cover Islam and human rights, Qur’anic hermeneutics, Islam in the West, and reform of Islamic education and Islamic law. Among his publications are Islam and Human Rights, Islamic Political Thought and Governance: The Qur’an: An Introduction; Interpreting the Qur’an: Towards a Contemporary Approach; Islamic Banking and Interest; and Freedom of Religion, Apostasy and Islam. Saeed is a member of the UNESCO Commission of Australia of the Department of Foreign Affairs of Australia and a Fellow of the Australian Academy of Humanities. He was awarded the Order of Australia in 2013 for his contribution to the development of Islamic Studies and interfaith activities. Saeed received his Ph.D. in Islamic Studies and M.A. in Applied Linguistics, both from the University of Melbourne, and his B.A. in Arab and Islamic Studies in Saudi Arabia.

Lutforahman Saeed
AFGHANISTAN

Lutforahman Saeed is the Country Director of the Legal Education Support Program in Afghanistan and a Professor at Kabul University’s Shari’a Faculty since 1994. Prior to this position, he worked at the Afghanistan Supreme Court. He has published numerous articles in a variety of languages and is co-writer of the Afghanistan government’s Religious Affairs Sector Strategy and is the editor for the Justice Sector Strategy as well. Saeed has attended numerous and international conferences. He studied Islamic Law at Kabul University Shari’a Faculty and received his LL.M. from the University of Washington Law School.

Neha Sahgal
UNITED STATES

Neha Sahgal is a Senior Researcher at the Pew Research Center’s Forum on Religion & Public Life, specializing in international polling, particularly on topics related to interreligious relations and political Islam. In addition, Sahgal works on all aspects of the Pew Forum's domestic survey research. Prior to joining the Pew Forum, she was an analyst at Ventana Research in Pleasanton, California, and The Asia Foundation in San Francisco. Sahgal received her Ph.D. in Government and Politics, with a concentration in the Comparative Politics of the Middle East and South Asia, from The University of Maryland. Her dissertation examines alliance building among Islamist, secular, and leftist opposition groups in Egypt and Pakistan. She received her B.A. in Political Science from the College of Wooster in Wooster, Ohio.

Ridha Saidi
TUNISIA

Ridha Saidi is Minister Delegate to the Prime Minister of Tunisia, in charge of economic and social affairs. He coordinates the work of all ministerial departments dealing with economic and social issues and leads cabinet meetings in the Prime Minister’s absence. Saidi coordinated the economic and social components of Ennahdha’s electoral program in 2011. A member of the executive bureau of Ennahdha between 1991 and 2007, he served 16 years in jail for his political activities. Saidi has spent most of his professional career in the fields of energy, quality production, and political economy. He served as chairman of the northwest district of the Tunisian Electricity and Gas Company. He developed an analytical study entitled “National Economy: Reality and Prospects,” published in November 2012, many parts of which were written while he was in jail. Saidi is also the author of several articles on economic issues. He holds a master’s degree in Quality Management and Productivity and a degree in Engineering from the National School of Engineers of Tunis.

Wafia Saifalnasr
LIBYA

Wafia Saifalnasr is the President of the Prime Minister’s Diwan (Advisory Council) where she is responsible for the electronic media and management of the Prime Minister’s office. Saifalnasr is a founding member of the Libyan Women’s Platform for Peace, an organization dedicated to the inclusion of women in the political and social space. Previously, she served as president of the Tripoli Library and attended numerous domestic and international conferences aimed at engaging Libyan civil society. With a focus on development, stability, and employment issues, Saifalnasr advocates for cooperation and collaborative work in order to advance universal Libyan goals. Sai-falnasr received her master’s in Software Engineering and bachelor’s in Rights.

Amrullah Saleh
AFGHANISTAN

Amrullah Saleh is the Chief and Founder of the Basej-e Mili (Green Trend), a grassroots organization that strongly favors democracy and reform in Afghanistan. Previously,
Saleh was appointed by President
Hamid Karzai to serve as head of the Afghan Intelligence Service National Directorate of Security from 2004-2010. Saleh participated in leading intelligence operations of the United Front on the ground during the war in Afghanistan toppling the Taliban regime.
He previously assisted the United Front in the late 1990s when he was appointed by Ahmad Shah Massoud. In 1997, Saleh was appointed to lead Massoud’s international liaison office at the Afghan Embassy in Dushanbe, Tajikistan, where he coordinated non-governmental (humanitarian) organizations and was a liaison partner for foreign intelligence agencies. He has written extensively on security, democracy, and Afghanistan-Pakistan relations. Saleh received an honorary Ph.D. in Political Science from Cleary University.

Mohammad Sammak
LEBANON

Mohammad Sammak is the Advisor to the Mufti of Lebanon. He also serves as Secretary General of the Christian-Muslim Committee for Dialogue, Secretary General of the Islamic Permanent Committee, and Secretary General of the Executive Committee of the Christian-Muslim Arab Group. A prolific author, he is a member of various professional journalistic societies, including The Union of Lebanese Writers and the Union of Arab Journalists. In addition, he serves as a member of the Lebanese National UNESCO Committee, and serves on the board of both Christian and Islamic educational institutions. He is a political analyst for Al-Abram newspaper (Cairo), Al-Ittihad Newspaper (Abu Dhabi), and Almustaqbal Newspaper (Beirut). He has written and published 20 books on intra-Arab relations, interreligious relations, minority affairs, politics and religion, and the history of the Middle East.

David Saperstein
UNITED STATES

David Saperstein is the Director of the Religious Action Center of Reform Judaism. Described in a Washington Post profile as the “quintessential religious lobbyist on Capitol Hill,” Rabbi Saperstein represents the national Reform Jewish Movement to Congress and the presidential administration. He heads several national religious coalitions, including the Coalition to Preserve Religious Liberty. Saperstein serves on the boards of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, National Religious Partnership on the Environment, People for the American Way, and the World Bank’s World Faith Development
Dialogue. In 1999, Saperstein was elected as the first Chair of the U.S. Commission on International Religious Freedom. In 2009, President Barack Obama named him to the President’s Advisory Council on Faith-Based and Neighborhood Partnerships. Saper-stein teaches seminars in First Amendment Church-
State Law and in Jewish Law at Georgetown University Law School. He has appeared on a number of television news and talk shows, and his articles have appeared in vard Law Review. His latest book is *Jewish Dimensions

Negina Sawez
UNITED STATES

Negina Sawez is a Program Officer at the Bureau of Democracy, Human Rights, and Labor at the U.S.
Department of State, focusing on Egypt, Iraq, and Syria, working directly with civil society activists and government officials to support the transition process and promote human rights in the region. Prior to this position, Sawez focused on Middle East North Africa programming for several USAID implementers, specifically concentrating on gender-based violence, child protection, and refugee assistance and reintegration.
Sawez served as assistant chief of party in Baghdad for the United States Institute of Peace from 2009-2011.
She has a master’s in Public Health and Development from The George Washington University with a focus on mental health and psychosocial support in post-conflict and transitional societies.
Cynthia P. Schneider
UNITED STATES

Cynthia P. Schneider is a Nonresident Senior Fellow in the Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World at Brookings. She leads the Arts and Culture Initiative in the Saban Center for Middle East Policy and teaches courses in Diplomacy and Culture in the School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University. Schneider also has a research fellowship from the USC Center on Public Diplomacy to write on the impact of arts, culture, and media in Afghanistan and Pakistan. From 1998 until 2001, she served as U.S. Ambassador to the Netherlands, during which time she led initiatives in cultural diplomacy, biotechnology, cyber security, and education. In 2001, she was awarded the Office of the Secretary of Defense Exceptional Public Service Award. Schneider serves on the board of directors of Wesley Theological Seminary, Imagine Schools, and the Sandy Spring Museum, and the advisory boards of the Institute of Cultural Diplomacy, the Sustainable Preservation Initiative, and Singapore Technologies Telemedia. She received her B.A. and Ph.D. from Harvard University.

David Sedney
UNITED STATES

David Sedney was Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Afghanistan, Pakistan and Central Asia in the Office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Asian and Pacific Security Affairs from 2009-2013 and Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for East Asia from 2007-2009. He served as Deputy Chief of Mission at the U.S. Embassy in Beijing from 2004-2007. From 2003-2004 Sedney was Deputy Chief of Mission at the U.S. Embassy in Kabul, where he was Charge d’Affaires from August-November 2003. Sedney was also Deputy Chief of Mission in Kabul in 2002, after the re-opening of the embassy. He is a graduate of Princeton University and Suffolk University School of Law. He has received the Secretary of Defense Medal for Meritorious Civilian Service, the Department of State’s Superior Honor Award six times, and Department of State’s Meritorious Honor Award twice. He attended Louisiana State University’s School of Law where he studied Law of the Sea and International Law. Sedney is a distinguished graduate of the National War College.

Daniel Serwer
UNITED STATES

Daniel Serwer is a Senior Research Professor of Conflict Management, as well as a Senior Fellow at the Center for Transatlantic Relations, at The Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies, Johns Hopkins University. In addition, he is a Scholar at the Middle East Institute. His current interests focus on the instruments needed to protect U.S. national security as well as transition and state-building in the Middle East, North Africa, and the Balkans. Formerly vice president for Centers of Peacebuilding Innovation at the United States Institute of Peace (USIP), he led teams there working on rule of law, religion, economics, media, technology, security sector governance, and gender. He also served as vice president for Peace and Stability Operations at USIP, where he led its peacebuilding work in Iraq, Afghanistan, Sudan, and the Balkans and served as executive director of the Hamilton/Baker Iraq Study Group. He was a minister-counselor at the Department of State, serving from 1994 to 1996 as U.S. special envoy and coordinator for the Bosnian Federation, mediating between Croats and Muslims and negotiating the first agreement reached at the Dayton peace talks. He earned his Ph.D. from Princeton University.

Tarek M. Shaalan
EGYPT

Tarek Shaalan is the Head of the Economic Committee for the Al-Watan political party in Egypt, the Development Advisor at the Ministry of Planning, and a Government Advisory Board member for the Suez Canal Development Project. Shaalan is an Associate Professor at The American University in Cairo and is a senior advisor for global logistics and supply chain management. He was the former program director for the Industrial and Service Engineering and Management Program at Nile University. He is a certified six sigma black belt professional from the American Society for Quality Professionals since 2006. He has over eighteen years of industry experience, and has worked in multinational companies all over the globe.
Salman Shaikh
QATAR
Salman Shaikh is the Director of the Brookings Doha Center and a Fellow at the Saban Center for Middle East Policy at Brookings. He worked with the United Nations for nearly a decade, primarily on Middle East policy, as the special assistant to the UN Special Coordinator for the Middle East Peace Process and as Political Adviser to the UN Secretary General’s Personal Representative for Lebanon during the 2006 war. He also served as the Director for Policy and Research in the Office of Her Highness Sheikh Mozah Bint Nasser Al-Missned, the Consort of the Emir of Qatar, where he led a team of research analysts dedicated to advising on policy options and the initiatives of Her Highness. Shaikh earned his M.A. in International Relations from Canterbury University and his B.A. in Politics and Economics from Loughborough University.

Ibrahim Sharqieh
QATAR
Ibrahim Sharqieh is Deputy Director of the Brookings Doha Center and Adjunct Professor at Georgetown University in Qatar. Sharqieh previously served as senior project director at The Academy for Educational Development (AED), where he managed international development projects in several Arab countries. He has published extensively on conflict resolution in the MENA region, with articles appearing in The New York Times, Financial Times, Foreign Policy, CNN, Christian Science Monitor, Al-Jazeera, and the Philadelphia Inquirer. Widely quoted on Middle East politics in Reuters and the Associated Press, he is a frequent commentator on news channels, including NPR, CNN, Al Jazeera (English and Arabic), and BBC. Sharqieh received his Ph.D. from George Mason University in Conflict Analysis and Resolution in 2006.

Samer S. Shehata
UNITED STATES
Samer Shehata is an Associate Professor of International and Area Studies, and Middle East Programs Coordinator, at the University of Oklahoma. He was previously assistant professor of Arab Politics at Georgetown University. He is the author of Shop Floor Culture and Politics in Egypt (2009), the editor of Islamist Politics in the Middle East (2012), and his work has also appeared in numerous academic and policy journals. He has received fellowships from the Ford Foundation, the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars, and the Carnegie Corporation. He has testified before the U.S. Congress and is frequently interviewed about Egypt and Middle East politics by a wide range of media. Shehata obtained his Ph.D. in Politics from Princeton University, his M.Phil. in Social Theory from Cambridge University, and his B.A. in Political Science and Middle Eastern Studies from the University of California, Berkeley.

Chris Shields
UNITED STATES
Chris Shields is a Partner in Entech Holdings and FN.org, a media and technology incubator and charitable trust. FN is focused on cultural exchange as catalyst for socio-economic development and an antidote to radical extremism and sectarian violence. The organization most recently helped launch the Festival in Exile, a global tolerance campaign seeded from the acclaimed but now exiled Festival au Desert of Timbuktu. Shields’ entrepreneurial work includes the founding of and investment in companies such as Entech, Shoreline Media, and the Festival Network, where he oversaw the largest portfolio of international festivals from the Paris, Newport, and New York Jazz Festivals to the Olympic Games. Shields is a regular panelist at the United Nations, the Billboard Conference, the Africa Festival, and the Doha Forum. He received a B.A. from Columbia University and studied jazz theory at the Berklee College of Music.
Sultana Siddiqui
PAKISTAN

Sultana Siddiqui is the Founder and President of HUM TV Network, one of the top 25 companies acknowledged by the Karachi Stock Exchange. She is the first woman in South Asia to establish a television station, and under her direction HUM TV has received Pakistan’s prestigious Lux Award four years in a row for its drama programming. Siddiqui has also produced children’s programming, musical performances, telefilms, serials, and social and professional documentaries. Prior to HUM TV, Siddiqui was a producer at the Pakistan Television Karachi Center (PTV). Siddiqui has won numerous awards, including the Best Producer of a Drama Serial, Best Producer of a Music Production, the Hazrat Khadijet ul Kubra Award, Women of Vision Award, Nigar Award, the Gold Medal Award, Sindh Graduates Association Award, and the Pride of Performance Award from the Government of Pakistan. Her work is well known for its attention to social issues and its focus on female empowerment. Siddiqui has represented Pakistan in numerous international workshops and seminars.

Tad Stahnke
UNITED STATES

Tad Stahnke is the Director of Policy and Programs at Human Rights First. Prior to joining Human Rights First in 2008, Stahnke worked at the U.S. Commission on International Religious Freedom from 2000 to 2007, where he served as deputy executive director for Policy, as well as acting executive director in 2002 and 2007. He led the Commission’s effort on strengthening U.S. foreign policy in advancing the right to freedom of religion and belief. He participated in fact-finding missions in Asia, Europe, and the Middle East, and served on official U.S. delegations to human rights conferences of the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe and the United Nations. Stahnke is the 2013 recipient of the National First Freedom Award. He was a research fellow and lecturer at Columbia Law School and earned his J.D. from Columbia Law School, his M.A. in Urban Planning from New York University, and B.A. in Metropolitan Studies from New York University.

Arsalan Suleman
UNITED STATES

Arsalan Suleman serves as Deputy U.S. Special Envoy to the Organization of Islamic Cooperation. Arsalan assists U.S. Special Envoy Rashad Hussain in the administration’s efforts to deepen and expand the partnerships President Barack Obama announced in Cairo, Egypt, in June 2009. Suleman graduated from Georgetown University’s School of Foreign Service with a B.S. in Foreign Service as an International Security Studies major and with a Certificate in Muslim-Christian Understanding. As a George Mitchell Scholar, he earned a master’s degree in International Peace Studies from Trinity College, Dublin. His J.D. is from Harvard Law School, where he published several articles on national security and law and was a fellow with the Harvard Negotiation Research Project. After law school, Arsalan clerked for Judge Miriam Cedarbaum, a federal district court judge in the Southern District of New York, and worked as a litigation associate at the law firm of Debevoise and Plimpton LLP.

Haris Tarin
UNITED STATES

Haris Tarin is the Washington, D.C., Director of the Muslim Public Affairs Council (MPAC), where he engages various agencies within government including the White House, Department of Justice, Department of State, Department of Homeland Security, and offices on Capitol Hill. Recently, Tarin was chosen as one of three young Americans to discuss policy issues with President Barack Obama, where he conversed with the President on topics such as national security, the American Muslim community, and civic engagement. Tarin has spoken at various domestic and international conferences and addressed media outlets on topics such as Islam and governance, the American Muslim identity, U.S.-Muslim world relations, the role of American Muslim institutions in policy formation, religion and public life, and civic engagement. Tarin is Co-Founder of the Ehsan Center, a multigenerational American Muslim community established in Southern California to develop an indigenous American Muslim identity and experience. He is the author of MPAC’s special report, “Introduction to Muslim America.” He received his undergraduate degree in Liberal Studies/Education at the California State University of Northridge and is currently pursuing his graduate work at the Center for Muslim-Christian Understanding at Georgetown University.

Shibley Telhami
UNITED STATES
Shibley Telhami is the Nonresident Senior Fellow at the Saban Center at the Brookings Institution and is also the Anwar Sadat Professor for Peace and Development at the University of Maryland, College Park. He has taught at a number of universities, including Princeton, Ohio State University, and Cornell University. Among numerous publications is his best-selling book, The Stakes: America and the Middle East. Recent publications include The Peace Puzzle: America’s Quest for Arab-Israeli Peace: 1989-2011 (2012), co-authored with Daniel Kurtzer, and The World Through Arab Eyes: Arab Public Opinion and the Reshaping of the Middle East (2013). He is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations and serves on the board of several educational and non-governmental organizations. Telhami received his Ph.D. from the University of California, Berkeley.

Knox Thames
UNITED STATES
Knox Thames is the Director of Policy at the U.S. Commission on International Religious Freedom, an independent U.S. government advisory body that monitors religious freedom worldwide and makes policy recommendations to the President, the Secretary of State, and the Congress. Before the Commission, Thames worked at the U.S. Department of State and the U.S. Commission on Security and Cooperation in Europe (the Helsinki Commission). Thames is a Member of the State Department Religion and Foreign Policy Working Group, an Advisory Council member with the Cambridge Institute on Religion and Global Affairs, and a term member with the Council on Foreign Relations. From 2004 through 2012, he was a U.S. appointee to the OSCE Panel of Experts on Freedom of Religion. Thames is an author of numerous articles on a range of human rights and foreign policy issues, being featured in Small Wars Journal, the Yale Journal of International Affairs, and ForeignPolicy.com.

Jihad Turk
UNITED STATES
Jihad Turk is President-Designate of Bayan Claremont, an Islamic graduate school designed to educate Muslim scholars and religious leaders. He was a founding board member of Claremont Lincoln University, a multi-religious university. His field of research focuses on Islamic Law with an emphasis on asul al-fiqh (jurisprudence) and theology. Turk engages in interfaith dialogue and serves on several interfaith and peace organization boards. He was featured in Traveling with Jihad, a documentary about the Abrahamic faiths. Additionally, he has been featured in the Los Angeles Times and has appeared on CNN and the History Channel representing Islam. His current interests also include identity formation in the American Muslim community, Islamic reform movements, and community leadership and development with a focus on youth.

Asma T. Uddin
UNITED STATES
Asma T. Uddin is a Legal Fellow at the Institute for Social Policy and Understanding and Legal Counsel at The Becket Fund for Religious Liberty. Uddin joined The Becket Fund in 2009 after practicing commercial litigation at prestigious national law firms for several years. She is also the Founder and Editor-in-Chief of the acclaimed altmuslimah.com, a web magazine dedicated to issues on gender and Islam. She has helped edit the book, A Muslim in Victorian America, which was published in 2007 by Oxford University Press. Uddin was also an associate editor and legal columnist for Islamica Magazine. She is an expert panelist for the Washington Post religion blog, On Faith, and a contributor to Huffington Post Religion, CNN’s Belief Blog, the Guardian’s Comment is Free, and Common Ground News. Uddin received her J.D. from the University of Chicago Law School.
Antoine van Agtmael
UNITED STATES

Antoine van Agtmael is a Senior Adviser at Garten Rothkopf, a public policy advisory firm in Washington, D.C. He was a founder, CEO, and CIO of Emerging Markets Management LLC (and later chairman of AshmoreEMM), a leading investment management firm for emerging market equities. He was also a founding director of the Strategic Investment Group. Before founding EMM in 1987, van Agtmael was deputy director of the Capital Markets department of the International Finance Corporation (IFC), the private sector-oriented affiliate of the World Bank. He was also a division chief in the World Bank’s borrowing operations, managing director of Thailand’s leading merchant bank TISCO, and vice president at Bankers Trust Company. While at IFC, he coined the term “emerging markets” and founded the IFC Emerging Markets Database. He was an adjunct professor at Georgetown Law Center and taught at the Harvard Institute of Politics and Thammasat University, Bangkok. He is Chairman of the NPR Foundation, a member of the board of NPR, and Chairman of its Investment Committee. He is also a Trustee of The Brookings Institution and Co-Chairman of its International Advisory Council. He is on the President’s Council on International Activities at Yale University and the Advisory Council of Johns Hopkins University’s Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies. Van Agtmael is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations. He holds an M.B.A. from New York University, an M.A. in Russian and Eastern European Studies from Yale University, and a B.A. (Econ. Cand.) in Economics from the Netherlands School of Economics.

Wan Saiful Wan Jan
MALAYSIA

Wan Saiful Wan Jan is the Founding Chief Executive of the Institute for Democracy and Economic Affairs and Director of Center for British Teachers Education, Malaysia. From 1993 until 2009, he worked for several organizations in the United Kingdom, including the Commonwealth Policy Studies Unit, the British Conservative Party’s Research Department, and Social Enterprise London. In May 2007, he contested in the United Kingdom local elections as a Conservative Party candidate. Wan Jan is also Vice President of the Istanbul Network for Liberty and a member of the Mont Pelerin Society. He is contributing writer for The Edge and Singapore Straits Times. His opinions have been featured in various media outlets, including The Economist, The Wall Street Journal, Reuters, BBC TV, BBC Radio, and Al Jazeera.

Jerry White
UNITED STATES

Jerry White is the Deputy Assistant Secretary of State in the Bureau of Conflict and Stabilization Operations, where he is responsible for the Burma and Libya portfolios, as well as the offices of Policy, Partnerships, and Training. He co-chairs the State Department’s sub-working group on religion and conflict mitigation, directing outreach to diverse civil society leaders and religious actors working to break cycles of violence. A social entrepreneur and senior Ashoka Fellow, White has helped train next-generation leadership in scores of countries to transform highly contentious issues into opportunities in order to unify communities, generate jobs, and build stability and hope. White is the first Irish Catholic to graduate magna cum laude with honors in Judaic Studies from Brown University.

Tamara Cofman Wittes
UNITED STATES

Tamara Cofman Wittes is a Senior Fellow and the Director of the Saban Center for Middle East Policy at Brookings, where she directs and conducts research regarding political and economic reform, as well as U.S. efforts to promote democracy in the Middle East. Previously, Wittes served as Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for Near Eastern Affairs from November of 2009 to January 2012, coordinating U.S. policy on democracy and human rights in the Middle East for the State Department. In addition, Wittes oversaw the Middle East Partnership Initiative and served as Deputy Special Coordinator for Middle East Transitions. Previously, Wittes served as a Middle East specialist at the U.S. Institute of Peace and as the director of programs at the Middle East Institute. She also taught courses in international relations and security studies. at Georgetown University. Wittes is a recipient of the Rabin-Peres Peace Award, established by President Bill Clinton in 1997. She is a member of the Council on Foreign Relations and Women in International Security. Wittes holds a B.A. in Judaic and Near Eastern Studies from Oberlin College, and an M.A. and Ph.D. in Government from Georgetown University.

James Wuye
NIGERIA

James Wuye is an Assemblies of God Pastor and Co-Executive Director with of the Interfaith Mediation Centre of the Muslim-Christian Dialogue in Kaduna State, Nigeria. He is also Chief of Party of the U.S. Agency for International Development-funded TOLERANCE project. Working together with Imam Muhammad Ashafa at the Interfaith Mediation Centre, Wuye has designed a strategy to both prevent religious and political violence and resolve it when it happens. He adopts faith based approach in his peace work that began in 1995. Wuye has been featured in a number of documentary films on conflict resolution, including The Imam and the Pastor, An African Answer, and Beyond 2000. He has assisted organizations in Northern Ireland, Rwanda, and Sudan and Native American communities in the United States. In April 2013, the center won First Prize for a February event marking the 2013 World Interfaith Harmony Week. Wuye has won the 2013 Hessian Peace Prize, the Fondation Chirac Prize for Conflict Prevention, and the Millennium Peace Activist Award of the Tanenbaum Center of Interreligious Understanding. He received an honorary doctorate in Law from the University of Massachusetts in 2012 and an honorary doctorate in Interfaith Development from the University of Glasgow in 2010.

Bilkisu Yusuf
NIGERIA

Bilkisu Yusuf is an Advisor to the President of Nigeria on international affairs, a Columnist for the Daily Trust newspaper, and Executive Director of AdvocacyNigeria, a movement working for the reduction of maternal and child mortality. Yusuf is a founding member of several NGOs, including Women in Nigeria (WIN) and the Federation of Muslim Women’s Association (FOMWAN). She began her career as an information officer in the Ministry of Information in Kano and worked briefly as a program producer at Radio Kano. She served as the editor of three national newspapers, The Triumph in Kano, and The New Nigerian and Citizen Magazine in Kaduna. She earned a master’s in Political Science from the University of Wisconsin-Madison and an advanced diploma in Journalism from the Moscow Institute of Journalism and International Relations, Moscow. Yusuf earned a B.Sc. at Ahmadu Bello University, Zaria.

Huma Yusuf
UNITED KINGDOM

Huma Yusuf is an award-winning journalist and columnist for Pakistan’s Dawn newspaper and is currently writing a book on the role of community radio stations in Pakistan’s northern and tribal areas. She is also launching a first-of-its-kind webzine, the goal of which is to provide an alternate forum where journalists and academics can publish articles on Pakistani society and culture that lie at the intersection of reporting and scholarly research. Yusuf was the 2010-2011 Pakistan Scholar at the Woodrow Wilson Center in Washington, D.C. and has completed reports on related topics for the Open Society Foundations, BBC Media Action, and the United States Institute of Peace. She specializes in human rights reporting and has addressed subjects such as low-income housing, ‘honor’ killings, gang wars, and the state's ineffective prosecution of rape cases. Her writing garnered the UNESCO/Pakistan Press Foundation Gender in Journalism 2005 Award and the European Commission’s 2006 Natali Lorenzo Prize for Human Rights Journalism. Yusuf received her M.Sc. from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Comparative Media Studies and her undergraduate degree from Harvard in English and American Literatures and Languages.

Mahir Zeynalov
TURKEY

Mahir Zeynalov is a Foreign Affairs Correspondent with Today's Zaman (Turkey). He is also Managing Editor of Caucasus International Magazine. Previously, Zeynalov was a correspondent for the Los Angeles Times.
Dalia Ziada
EGYPT

Dalia Ziada is the Executive Director of the Ibn Khaldun Center for Development Studies, one of the oldest nongovernmental organizations advocating for human rights and civil freedoms in the Arab world. Previously, Ziada worked for the American Islamic Congress for six years as the founding director of its Egypt Bureau. After Egypt’s 2011 revolution, Ziada co-founded the El-Adl political party and ran for parliament. An Egyptian human rights activist, she was named by Newsweek in 2011 and 2012 as one of the World’s Most Influential and Fearless Women, and one of CNN’s 2012 Arab World’s Eight Agents of Change, and was selected by The Daily Beast as one of world’s Bravest Bloggers in 2011. She received the 2011 Tufts University Presidential Award for civil work and in 2010 was awarded the Anna Lindh Euro-Mediterranean Journalist Award. Ziada received her M.A. in International Relations from The Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University.

Susan L. Ziadeh
UNITED STATES

Susan L. Ziadeh was sworn in as U.S. Ambassador to Qatar on September 12, 2011, for what is her eighth tour of duty in the Middle East. A career member of the Senior Foreign Service, Ziadeh’s early postings included stints in Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, and Jordan, and service as cultural officer and then vice-consul at the consulate in Jerusalem in the mid-1990s. In Washington from 2001 to 2003, Ziadeh was responsible for the Jordan desk, and was acting deputy director of the Office for Jordan, Syria, and Lebanon. From 2004 to 2007 she served as the Deputy Chief of Mission at the U.S. Embassy in Bahrain. From 2007 to 2009, she was the public affairs counselor and then official spokesperson at the U.S. Embassy in Iraq. Ziadeh returned to Riyadh as Deputy Chief of Mission at the U.S. Embassy from September 2009 to May 2011. She holds a B.A. in Near Eastern Languages and Civilizations from the University of Washington, an M.A. from the American University of Beirut, and a Ph.D. in Middle Eastern History from the University of Michigan. She also holds an M.S. in National Security Studies from the National War College, National Defense University.
SPECIAL THANKS

Special recognition and appreciation are extended to the following individuals for all their hard work, dedication and commitment towards the success of the 2013 U.S.-Islamic World Forum.

PERMANENT COMMITTEE FOR ORGANIZING CONFERENCES MINISTRY OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS, STATE OF QATAR

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Role</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>H.E. Sheikh Ahmed Bin Mohammed Bin Jabr Al Thani</td>
<td>Minister's Assistant for International Cooperation Affairs; Chairman of the Permanent Committee for Organizing Conferences</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ambassador Abdulla Abdul-Rahman Fakhrroo</td>
<td>Committee Executive Director</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jeannine ElSayed</td>
<td>Permanent Committee for Organizing Conferences</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Malik Esufi</td>
<td>Housing Supervisor</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jassim Bukarbal</td>
<td>Media and Press</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sami Al Surakhi</td>
<td>Qatar Airways</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bruno Kindlmann</td>
<td>Director, Brookings Doha Center</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mubarak Al Khateeb</td>
<td>Program Coordinator, Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Idris Al Aradi</td>
<td>Senior Research Assistant, Saban Center for Middle East Policy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Adham Sahloul</td>
<td>Intern, Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Adrianne Lynn</td>
<td>Communications Coordinator, Foreign Policy</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

BROOKINGS INSTITUTION – WASHINGTON

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Role</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Tamara Cofman Wittes</td>
<td>Senior Fellow and Director, Saban Center for Middle East Policy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Durriya Badani</td>
<td>Deputy Director, Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jomana Qaddour</td>
<td>Research Assistant and Publications Coordinator, Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Julie Song</td>
<td>Project Coordinator, Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Zack Gold</td>
<td>Senior Research Assistant, Saban Center for Middle East Policy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Adham Sahloul</td>
<td>Intern, Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Rebecca White</td>
<td>Communications and Website Coordinator, Foreign Policy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Tina Trenkner</td>
<td>Multimedia Coordinator, Foreign Policy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sadie Jonath</td>
<td>Development Officer, Foreign Policy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Malik Esufi</td>
<td>Housing Supervisor</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jassim Bukarbal</td>
<td>Media and Press</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sami Al Surakhi</td>
<td>Qatar Airways</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bruno Kindlmann</td>
<td>Director, Brookings Doha Center</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Mubarak Al Khateeb</td>
<td>Program Coordinator, Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Idris Al Aradi</td>
<td>Senior Research Assistant, Saban Center for Middle East Policy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Adham Sahloul</td>
<td>Intern, Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Adrianne Lynn</td>
<td>Communications Coordinator, Foreign Policy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Brooke Brown</td>
<td>Communications Coordinator, Foreign Policy</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Francoise Freiber</td>
<td>Editor</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hind Abdallah</td>
<td>Administrative Assistant</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

BROOKINGS DOHA CENTER – DOHA

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Name</th>
<th>Role</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Salman Sheikh</td>
<td>Fellow and Director, Brookings Doha Center</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ibrahim Sharqieh</td>
<td>Fellow and Deputy Director, Brookings Doha Center</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Nadine Masri</td>
<td>Budget and Administration Manager</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Kais Sharif</td>
<td>Program and Events Manager</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bahaa Omran</td>
<td>Communications Manager</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Jessica Sobrino</td>
<td>Communications Coordinator</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Samuel Plumbly</td>
<td>Senior Research Assistant</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Vittoria Federici</td>
<td>Research Assistant</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Francoise Freiber</td>
<td>Editor</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Hind Abdallah</td>
<td>Administrative Assistant</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
About the Brookings Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World

The Brookings Project on U.S. Relations with the Islamic World is a research initiative housed in the Saban Center for Middle East Policy at the Brookings Institution. The Project’s mission is to engage and inform policymakers, practitioners and the broader public on the changing dynamics within Muslim-majority countries and to advance relations between Americans and Muslim societies around the world.

To fulfill this mission, the Project sponsors a range of activities, research projects, and publications designed to educate, encourage frank dialogue, and build positive partnerships between the United States and Muslim states and communities around the world. The broader goals of the Project include:

- Exploring the multi-faceted nature of the United States’ relationship with Muslim states and communities, including issues related to mutual misperceptions amongst societies;

- Analyzing the social, economic and political dynamics underway in Muslim states and communities around the world;

- Identifying areas for shared endeavors between the United States and Muslim communities around the world on issues of common concern.

To achieve these goals, the Project has several interlocking components:

- The U.S.-Islamic World Forum, which brings together key leaders in politics, business, media, academia, and civil society from the United States and from throughout Muslim societies in Africa, Asia, Europe, and the Middle East. The forum also serves as a focal point for the Project’s ongoing research and initiatives, providing the foundation for a range of complementary activities designed to enhance dialogue and impact.

- An Analysis Paper Series that provides high-quality research and publications on key questions facing Muslim states and communities. Included in this is research flowing from working groups engaged in the U.S.-Islamic World Forum.

- Workshops, symposiums, and public and private discussions with government officials and other key stakeholders, focused on critical issues affecting the relationship;

- Special initiatives in targeted areas of demand. In the past these have included Arts and Culture, Science and Technology, and Religion and Diplomacy.

The Project’s Steering Committee consists of Martin Indyk, Vice President and Director of Foreign Policy Studies; Tamara Wittes, Senior Fellow and Director of the Saban Center; Bruce Riedel, Senior Fellow in the Saban Center; Shibley Telhami, Nonresident Senior Fellow in the Saban Center and Anwar Sadat Chair for Peace and Development at the University of Maryland; and Salman Shaikh, Fellow and Director of the Brookings Doha Center.
About the Saban Center for Middle East Policy at Brookings

Charting the path to a Middle East at peace with itself and the world

Founded in 2002, the Saban Center for Middle East Policy brings together the most expert, experienced policy minds working on the region, and provides policymakers and the public with objective, in-depth, and timely research and analysis. Our mission is to chart the path—political, economic, and social—to a Middle East at peace with itself and the world. Current research in the Center includes:

- The Palestinian-Israeli Deadlock – What Fills the Void?
- A Changing Middle East – The Arab Awakening and U.S. Strategy
- Politics and Security in the Persian Gulf
- The Future of Al Qaeda and Counterterrorism Policy
- US Relations with the Muslim World

The Saban Center was established on May 13, 2002 with an inaugural address by His Majesty King Abdullah II of Jordan. The Center was made possible by a generous grant from Haim and Cheryl Saban of Los Angeles, and is part of the Foreign Policy Studies Program at Brookings, led by Ambassador Martin Indyk. The Center upholds the Brookings values of Quality, Independence, and Impact.

The Center is home to the Project on US Relations with the Islamic World, which convenes a major international conference each year in Doha and a range of activities to educate, foster frank dialogue, and build positive partnerships among U.S. and Islamic communities. The Center also houses the Brookings Doha Center in Doha, Qatar—home to three permanent scholars, visiting fellows, and a full range of policy-relevant conferences and meetings.

Our team includes experienced and knowledgeable scholars, collectively offering decades of experience in government and in the field. Within the Center, a core group of experts conduct original research, bringing keen insight and fresh perspectives to bear on the critical challenges facing the Middle East today and on the policy choices facing American and regional decision makers. Their work is supplemented by non-resident scholars across the Middle East.

Saban Center Scholars:
- Tamara Cofman Wittes, Director
- Daniel Byman, Director of Research
- Michael Doran
- Khaled Elgindy
- Shadi Hamid, Brookings Doha Center
- Suzanne Maloney
- Kenneth M. Pollack
- Natan Sachs
- Salman Shaikh, Brookings Doha Center
- Bruce Riedel

Non-resident Fellows:
- Geneive Abdo, Stimson Center
- Akbar Ahmed, American University
- MJ Akbar, India
- Saad Eddin Ibrahim, Cairo
- Stephen R. Grand, Washington, D.C.
- Hisham Hellyer, Cairo
- Mirette Mabrouk, Cairo
- Peter Mandaville, George Mason University
- Alisa Rubin Peled, Interdisciplinary Center, Herzliya
- Itamar Rabinovich, Tel Aviv University
- Cynthia Schneider, Georgetown University
- Shibley Telhami, University of Maryland
U.S.-Islamic World Forum

June 9-11, 2013 • Doha, Qatar

A DECADE OF DIALOGUE